China withheld data from probe team, says WHO chief

A day after the WHO-China's final report on the origin of Covid rejected the Wuhan lab leak theory, WHO chief Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus tore into it, saying the global probe team did not get access to raw data in China

Tedros did not want to smoke out the lab leak angle, as he called for further investigation on all hypotheses, with additional missions back to China

"I do not believe that this assessment was extensive enough," Tedros said. "Further data and studies will be needed to reach more robust conclusions."

He also spoke about withholding of data. "In my discussions with the team, they expressed the difficulties they encountered in accessing raw data."

With Covid spike, IT firms extend WFH by 3 months

Govt employees too want work from home or 50% staff at office

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

AS Covid cases are shooting up across the State, especially in Bengaluru, many IT and ITES companies are extending the work from home (WFH) option for their employees by three more months. The firms had earlier said WFH would be till March 31 and asked employees to return to work from Wednesday. But now they are sending out emails, asking staff not to visit offices, unless absolutely necessary.

State Government employees too are asking for work from home option as they pointed out that they are at a higher risk, since there is no restriction on the number of people visiting government offices.

A leading IT service management firm in east Bengaluru had earlier given the WFH option till March 31, but on Monday, employees received an email saying it has been extended by three more months. A multinational investment bank and financial services company in Bengaluru which had asked its employees to return to office from Wednesday, has told them to continue to work from home. An IT major too has extended WFH till May 31 and sent the mail to its employees a couple of weeks ago.

K S Viswanathan, Vice-President (Industry Initiatives), Nasscom, told TNIE that most of the companies had extended work from home till June and a few till September. P7

No ban on bypoll-related rallies, says Chief Secretary

RAMKRISHNA BADSESHI @ Kalaburagi

THE Covid-triggered ban on protests and rallies in the state will not apply to poll-related political activities in Basavakalyan and Maski Assembly constituencies and Belagavi Lok Sabha segment, where the by-elections will be held on April 17, said Chief Secretary of Karnataka, P Ravikumar, here on Tuesday.

Ravikumar, who is touring Kalaburagi district, told The New Indian Express in an exclusive interaction that political parties are allowed to hold indoor and outdoor political functions and rallies, but they should adhere to Covid protocols when there is a congregation of people.

Taking the example of Assembly elections in Tamil Nadu, where Covid norms are being followed during rallies, he said political parties here too can hold public meetings by asking people to adhere to Covid protocols. P3

Nirani: All for lifting ban on iron ore exports, as it can increase revenue

Minister for Mines and Geology Murugesh Nirani at the TNIE office in Bengaluru on Tuesday | VINOD KUMAR T

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CITING that the State is facing a loss of ₹8,000 crore annually due to a ban on iron ore exports, Minister for Mines and Geology Murugesh Rudrappa Nirani said that lifting the ban can bring three times more revenue to Karnataka.

EXPRESS TALK

Nirani, who visited The New Indian Express office on Tuesday, spoke at length about his plans for the ministry and said proposing to lift the ban on iron ore exports is on his priority list.

"In Karnataka, iron ore is priced at $40-$50 per tonne since export is banned. But in the international market, it is $150-$160. Karnataka is the ultimate loser. It can gain three times the revenue on the same quantity of iron ore if exported," the Minister for Mines and Geology said.

Karnataka had slapped the ban in 2010 and it was later upheld by the Supreme Court following a multi-crore mining scam in Ballari.

The Federation of Indian Mineral Industries in 2020 had requested the State Government to reconsider its decision on the export ban.

The federation had estimated that the gross loss over to the state over 10 years was approximately ₹29,058.8 crore.

Health centres need better care: Residents

Officials seek suggestions for a vision document to improve urban health services

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

RESIDENTS from across the city have suggested that to improve public health, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) and the health department should strengthen primary health centres as well as keep them updated regularly.

This was one of the prime demands of members of resident welfare associations during a meeting with officials of the health department and the BBMP on Tuesday to discuss how to improve urban health issues and services. For this, a vision document is being prepared, for which an urban health sub-committee has been formed that is taking inputs from citizens.

Residents have also listed demands like deputing better trained doctors and medical staffers, setting up PHCs in all wards, with an ambulance each, and upgrading PHCs with the latest equipment, making them operate round-the-clock and improving the emergency and pregnancy services.

Some others also suggested that there was a need for setting up of more public toilets in the city, especially for women, as it was a major urban health concern, addressing the garbage menace and ensuring that health officials are approachable.

Though Covid-19 was not on the meeting agenda, it became a major topic of discussion, with citizens raising questions on the closing down of public utility areas in apartment complexes, formation of Covid clusters and containment zones and the restrictions in the city.

Dr G K Suresh, chairman of the urban health sub-committee, said that one PHC is needed for a population of every 50,000 and pointed out that the PHC staffers are over burdened. A grievance redressal portal is also being set up to take feedback and address queries. He said that all the feedback taken will be incorporated in the vision document and submitted to the government in another 15-20 days.

HC seeks state's decision on restarting mid-day meals

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday said that the state government must take a decision on reintroducing mid-day meals in schools from April 15, so long as students of classes 6 to 10 attend offline lessons.

A division bench of Justice B V Nagarathna and Justice J M Khazi passed the order on a petition, filed by one M Radha and two others, regarding reopening of schools and distribution of food.

"We are of the view that providing Food Security Allowance in the form of food grains cannot be permitted when schools are open. Students of classes 6 to 10 should be provided mid-day meals," it said, while asking the state government to place on record the decision on or before April 8.

Prior to this, the government advocate submitted that anganwadi centres are open from 9.30 am to 12 noon and food under Supplementary Nutrition Programme (SNP) is being supplied to the doorsteps of the beneficiaries.

Fearing the rapid spread of Covid second wave in the state, it has been decided to continue providing SNP food in the form of take home ration, instead of hot cooked meals, in the interest of beneficiaries. The decision on re-introduction of hot cooked meals in anganawadis will be taken after the advice of the Technical Advisory Committee, the government advocate told the court.

On whether mid-day meals should be provided to students of classes 6 to 10 after April 10, the government advocate submitted that the state government has decided to continue with the Food Security Allowance, due to the second wave of Covid. Cooking meals and serving them on the school premises will lead to more infections, the advocate told the court, while informing it that no decision has been taken yet when the next academic year will be commenced.

On account of the pandemic, the financial year has been extended till June 10. To provide Food Security Allowance from April 10 to June 10, a period of 47 days, an action plan has been placed before the government for financial assistance, the advocate informed the court. Further hearing will be held on April 8.

Mt Carmel College to give new look to five govt schools

State-level panel to monitor adopted schools

Around 3,000 schools were recently adopted through the school adoption initiative and the plan is to cover 30,000 needy schools by 2023. Corporates and industries will be involved to reach the target, said M R Doreswamy, advisor, education reforms, government of Karnataka. He has constituted a state-level advisory committee for the government to take a relook at the quality of work undertaken under the Parihara scheme. "This will give valuable feedback and enhance stakeholders' confidence towards this important initiative," he said. A state-wide tour is also being planned to take stock of the progress of works taken up by universities and autonomous colleges, and to prepare an action plan for course correction.

MOUNT Carmel College (MCC), Autonomous, will revamp five government schools under the State Government's Akshara Project, where institute's and entities adopt and develop government schools. In January, MCC adopted government schools at MSR Palya, Gedhanahalli, OPH Road, Jeevanahalli and Ramaswamipalya that run classes from classes one to seven.

On Tuesday, MCC officials inaugurated the new facilities at MSR Palya school, where they have installed an RO water facility, computer laboratory, library and a sports room, besides reworking parts of the school building, including fixing of the lavatory doors and flooring and wall tiles of the the dining area.

"Similar infrastructure upgrades have been planned for other four schools. But we are focussed more on skill enhancement of students and teachers at government schools," said Rajani Korah, Coordinator, Institutional Social Responsibility Cell and PG Department of Management Studies.

"We will train and orient teachers, and hold skill-enhancement programmes for parents and students. Additionally, an IQ test has been planned annually for students of Grade 7," she said.

The Institutional Social Responsibility cell has been entrusted with the project under the guidance of Principal Dr Sr Arpana and Vice-Principal Dr Charmaine Jerome. The skill development schemes are planned in association with Carl Zeiss (Bengaluru) Pvt Ltd.

Turahalli residents fill watering holes to prevent man-animal conflicts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AFTER staging protests to save the Turahalli reserve and minor forests, residents of the area are standing united once again — this time to supply water to keep the forest patches green in the sweltering heat and ensure that wild animals do not stray into human habitats to quench their thirst.

The residents have been rejuvenating watering holes through water tankers on a daily basis from Saturday, and so far, they have already sent six tankers to forest areas. Their aim is to prevent the watering holes from drying up this summer and ensure that animals are not left thirsty. This initiative will also prevent forest patches from drying up and reduce the risks of forest fires.

Water being pumped from a tanker into a watering hole at Turahalli reserve and minor forests | EXPRESS

Rashmi Mavinkurve of ShareHabitat, a self-funded initiative, said that the forest department is also backing this initiative as it is for the revival of the eco-system. Their aim is to supply at least 30-40 tankers of water this summer to protect wildlife, Mavinkurve said.

A resident added that normally people are encouraged to keep a bowl of water for birds and animals, but they decided to take it a step ahead.

"Since the forest patch was in the news for all the wrong reasons in the recent past, the residents realised that it is the responsibility of every one in the vicinity to ensure that there are no more such incidents. Due to regular movement of people, a watch will also be maintained and miscreants will have little scope to set the forest ablaze. Also if the groundwater table is high and soil is moist, then chances of forest fires will be less," the resident said.

Fire at Chikkanagamangala SWM under control

The fire, which was reported at Chikkanagamangala solid waste management plant again on Tuesday, has been brought under control. According to locals, the legacy waste in the site had been burning for the last three days and the BBMP was unable to control the situation. BBMP officials admitted that there was a fire, but it was brought under control. An official said that during summer, legacy waste catches fire as the temperatures are normally very high and the methane gas released is inflammable. ENS

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

31st March: An astonishing range of planetary activity is happening, including mystical Neptune in dreamy Pisces. Now there's a recipe for muddle. But I don't think that anything is inevitable so there's no need to give way to confusion. So, if we all make an effort to think clearly, we should get through unscathed.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The Moon is now at a pleasantly supportive phase of its 28 day cycle, heightening your feelings and emphasising your emotions. It would be a good move indeed if you could tune in to this deep aspect of your nature, through the month as a whole.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Let yourself relax now that pressure has eased a little. You should work to heal those wounds that have re-opened by recent arguments. Joint finances move up the agenda, so if you do have a chance to harass the bank manager, you may well have a surprise success.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
For once everything seems to be going your way. At least, that is the message coming from a planetary picture, which has your best interests at heart. Deal with money sooner rather than later and get the most out of a professional opportunity.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
For as long as the Moon exerts its emotional sway over your money, even indirectly, you will feel slightly sensitive about financial issues. Is it that you consider you may have let a friend down by not paying your way? You're still too busy, but, then, what's new!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
A domestic matter or family complication has certainly been giving you sleepless nights lately. Perhaps you have been trying to hang on to a mythical past others have abandoned. If, by any chance, partners are still confused, have another go at enlightening them.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
There is no reason why you should agree to force the pace or consent to proposals which are frankly not in your best interests. Bide your time if this is what you feel is best for now. You should catch up with a family relationship and restore a favourite bond.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You really must learn to listen to what partners are saying and doing. Sometimes it's not even enough to listen to their wise words - you should take their advice as well. And that might mean swallowing humble pie! You can put financial plans on the back-burner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
If people have been challenging your authority at home or at work, then this is largely because you have let both them and yourself down. There is every reason for you to try and re-establish your position as soon as possible, whatever partners say.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Seeing that today's lunar alignment gives you total control at home, the time is fast approaching when a major reorganisation of your financial life must take place. Events which occur now, will make or break your economic situation for months to come.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Upsetting or challenging circumstances play a familiar part in your life, so much so, you take them for granted. The key to success lies almost entirely within your own hands. Once you've understood that simple truth, you'll be set on the road to good fortune.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
The Sun's relationship with Saturn implies that self-discipline is essential, if you are to accomplish tasks which express your creative nature. Look for avenues which will enhance your freedom and set a course for the next six or seven months - at least.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
It's one of those mysterious days when nothing seems to work out quite as anticipated. Perhaps this is because your expectations were unrealistic in the first place, but what transpires will be enjoyable in any case. Financially, focus on saving rather than spending.

POOR RESPONSE FOR VAX AMONG MINORITIES

Address fears about side-effects, fake news, experts tell govt

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

WHILE the state government claims that it is racing to vaccinate as many people as possible, health workers on the ground and experts say Covid immunisation among minorities is poor, and that the government should address it to ensure that there are no health inequities.

A senior BBMP official said that in many wards people do not turn up for the vaccine. "We have been trying to convince people, but they do not agree to get the shot. Awareness programmes must be held in these wards. It's not just in the city, this has been seen across the state," the official said.

Dr Giridhara R Babu, senior epidemiologist and public health expert, said on Twitter, "Earlier vaccination programs had clearly defined social mobilisation components. They used to engage with all religious leaders for the awareness programs. Not engaging with the minorities in a culturally sensitive and appropriate manner will worsen the health inequities".

Religious leaders say that they have heard people from their communities refuse the vaccine, but point out that it is mostly due to fears about the side-effects and fake news which has spread like wild fire, which the government has done nothing to address.

Ameen e Mudassar, educationist and Covid warrior who set up a helpline for Covid patients, said, "Many from minority communities are getting vaccinated, but yes, the numbers are not big. Fake news on social media about side-effects of vaccination has made many wait and watch."

He said that religious leaders are encouraging people to get vaccinated. "The numbers are expected to increase from April 1 as the age limit will be above 45 years," he said.

However, religious leaders said that the government should do more to address the fears and dispel the myths that induced hesitancy.

"The state government, which sent out so many circulars asking us not to gather crowd during festivals, can also send out a circular instructing us to tell people to go and take the vaccine," said Maulana Maqsood Imran Rashadi, Khateeb O Imam, Jama Masjid.

He said the health department or the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike should rope in religious leaders for awareness drives.

"It really matters. We dispelled the fear about data not given by Covaxin manufacturers and gave clarifications about it once data was released. Then started the fake news about people dying after vaccination. We have been doing our best to dispel people's fears, but won't it make sense for the government to involve us to campaign for the vaccination drives? Why isn't this being done?" Maqsood Imran Rashadi asked.

However, public health doctor Dr Sylvia Karpagam, said, "Since the pandemic started, minorities have been targeted and vilified by the media, elected representatives and even the health system. This has had a serious impact on the lives, livelihoods and mental health of the community. It has led to serious erosion of trust. Attempts have to be made by all these groups - elected representatives, media and the health system to rebuild trust."

Active clusters in city shoot up to 31, Dasarahalli, Yelahanka have 9 each

IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru

DASARAHALLI and Yelahanka - which are smaller than the other six zones in the city - have an outsized share in the number of active clusters reported in Bengaluru, largely due to the irresponsible behaviour of residents, officials say.

Bengaluru currently has 31 active clusters, up from 14 last week. However, since the first cluster was reported in February, the state capital has had 52 clusters so far this year, with around 500 infections.

Dasarahalli and Yelahanka zones have seen nine clusters each, followed by two each in South and West zones and one in RR Nagar. Most of the clusters are in residential complexes, schools and colleges.

Dasarahalli zone has a population of over 2.5 lakh spread across over eight wards, Joint Commissioner Narasimha Murthy said. He said that the clusters had been detected by conducting tests in schools and colleges, and that people in apartment complexes were testing positive as they moved around the city for work and in crowded areas.

"Unlike other zones where clusters involve people from other states, in none of the clusters here do people have a travel history. In spite of repeated efforts to spread awareness by asking people to wear masks and avoid crowding, they do not follow norms. People are not even coming to get vaccinated in large numbers," he said.

Health Officer for Dasarahalli Suresh Rudrappa said that increased testing had helped. "Our target is to conduct 1,000 tests per day, but we are doing 2,000. Back in January and February, testing had come down, but it is on track now. With schools and colleges opening, many people are testing positive. We have been carrying out all containment measures so that infections do not spread," he said.

The rise in Yelahanka zone however, is largely to due a high number of people coming in from other states, including students. "Many nursing college students are from other states and the virus is spreading to others, forming clusters. We have bee strictly checking RT-PCR test reports once they arrive, and have also been doing frequent tests," said a BBMP health official.

Not second wave, no need to panic: Chief Secy

RAMKRISHNA BADSESHI @Kalaburagi

WHILE the government admits to a sharp spike in Covid-19 cases over the past week, it is holding back on calling it a 'second wave'.

Karnataka Chief Secretary P Ravikumar, touring Kalaburagi district, told TNIE on Tuesday, "There is no need to be panic. The situation is not alarming, and the government is ready to face any eventuality. Instructions have been given to increase RT-PCR testing. There is sufficient infrastructure and doctors are ready to treat patients."

The officer said the stress is on home isolation, rather than hospitalisation. "We are admitting those who do not have the facility for home isolation," he said.

He requested people having symptoms of Covid-19 not to self-medicate, and to undergo RT-PCR tests. "They will be prescribed medicines for the home isolation period. This will help prevent the spreading of the virus."

No shortage of vaccines

"There is no dearth of vaccines in Karnataka. We already have 3 lakh doses, and another 20 lakh doses are to come to Karnataka," the chief secretary said. The government is planning to launch an awareness drive on taking the vaccine, Ravikumar added.

Vaccination was started in PHC sub-centres too from Monday, and officials have been instructed to encourage people aged over 45 years to compulsorily take the vaccine, he said.

Ravikumar expressed confidence that if Covid-19 norms are followed and people compulsorily take the vaccine, the State will certainly gain control of the pandemic.

Belagavi with BJP, we'll win by 3L votes, says BSY

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Belagavi

AFTER holding discussions with leaders of various communities on Tuesday, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa expressed confidence that the party's Belagavi Lok Sabha candidate Mangala Angadi would win the seat by more than 3 lakh votes. Yediyurappa and other party leaders accompanied her for filing nomination papers.

He said the leaders had expressed their full support to Mangala Angadi, wife of late Union Minister of State for Railways Suresh Angadi. "Leaders of different communities, including weavers, Kurubas and Maratha Samaj said they had a great deal of respect for the Angadi family, and would support the candidate," he said. Yediyurappa said he would be back in Belagavi on April 7 to take part in the election campaign. The bypoll was necessitated due to the death of Suresh Angadi last year, of Covid-19 complications.

Asked whether the Lingayat community would continue to support his party, Yediyurappa said the community had always rallied behind the party and the party too had always been supportive of the community. He said he was confident the Lingayats would support Angadi in the coming election.

Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, Industries minister Jagadish Shettar, State BJP president Nalin Kumar Kateel and others accompany BJP candidate for Belagavi bypoll Mangala Angadi to file her nomination papers at Belagavi DC office | EXPRESS

Earlier, the Chief Minister recalled the statements of some leaders of the opposition that they would not contest the Belagavi LS bypoll if a member of Suresh Angadi's family contested the polls, and said he would request all the people to vote for her.

Addressing a BJP convention in Belagavi later, Yediyurappa praised Suresh Angadi for bringing several major railway projects to the state and said he had never expected him to depart so soon.

The Belagavi bypoll promises to be an interesting contest, with the Congress fielding MLA Satish Jarkiholi.

To curb corruption, a central GPS to track all sand mining vehicles will be implemented. We plan on giving free sand for construction of houses costing less than ₹10 lakh

Murugesh Rudrappa Nirani, Mines and Geology Minister

NIRANI HAS BIG PLANS FOR MINING SECTOR

Central GPS, mining investors' meet, PPP model for exploration on anvil

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

IN a freewheeling interaction with the editorial team of The New Indian Express, Minister for Mines and Geology Murugesh Rudrappa Nirani on Tuesday spoke at length about his plans for the ministry. It has been barely 60 days since he took charge, but Nirani has a route map already charted out for the department.

After all stone mining and crushing units were ordered to be shut down in the State, following two back-to-back mining tragedies, Nirani on Monday took a decision to revoke the order and get units started on production. "Directorate General of Mines Safety (DGMS) licences have been mandatory for around 50 years now, but barely anyone has heard of them. The crackdown cannot be a knee-jerk reaction affecting mine owners, employees, material supply for construction and the State's revenue. Barely 10% of 2,500 stone quarries and stone-crushing units have this licence and only 10 new ones can probably be made in a day. It is practically unviable to keep mines shut," Nirani said.

From resurveying gold mines in KGF to converting gold mined in Hutti into memorabilia, and encouraging investments in the mining sector, the minister is keen on increasing the State's revenue multifold. "To curb corruption, a central GPS (geo positioning system) to track all sand mining vehicles will be implemented. We plan on giving free sand for construction of houses costing less than ₹10 lakh. The requirement of sand will be assessed based on the floor plan of all new constructions and sand cost levied accordingly, with permission to source sand from any permitted area. For government projects, the cost of sand will be sent to the department's account directly," the minister said, explaining a few components of the yet-to-be unveiled new sand policy for the State.

Nirani is keen on new investments, auctions and PPPs in the department, and hopes to have a mine investors' meet soon. "It is impossible to undertake G1 mineral exploration across the state since it is expensive and time consuming, but we can undertake G3 exploration and invite investors. We will encourage them to take up exploration and submit detailed project reports and then proceed to auction blocks. Since 2010, mining has been a taboo subject in the State. We have 166 mines, of which 66 are under C category that have been cancelled and can be reauctioned. Of the other 100, 66 have been auctioned -- 32 are functioning, 34 aren't. The remaining 34 are in the stage of auction," Nirani said.

JDS fielded Muslim candidate to help saffron party in Basavakalyan: Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kalaburagi

THE JDS has fielded a Muslim candidate for the Basavakalyan bypoll as it has an understanding with the BJP, former chief minister Siddaramaiah said here on Tuesday.

He was speaking to reporters during a brief halt at Kalaburagi, before proceeding to Basavakalyan for the filing of nominations by Congress candidate Mallamma, wife of late B Narayana Rao.

Siddaramaiah said that Narayana Rao had a good following among all sections of people in Basavakalyan, and the failure of the BJP government would help the Congress retain the seat in the April 17 bypoll. He said the Congress has fielded good candidates in Maski assembly and Belagavi Lok Sabha constituencies, and hopes to win all three seats.

KPCC president D K Shivakumar said the impact of the JDS fielding a Muslim candidate would be apparent in the coming days. The three candidates fielded by the Congress have good support and there is no dissidence over selection of candidates, he claimed.

'Strong US-India relations good for biz partnership'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayana called on American businessmen and industry leaders to invest in Karnataka by availing several initiatives taken up by the state government.

Speaking at 'Destination India: Karnataka showcases', organised by the US- India Strategic Partnership Forum on Tuesday, the DyCM said that in 2019, the overall US-India bilateral trade in goods and services reached $149 billion. "The strong people-to-people ties between our countries, reflected in a four-million-strong Indian American diaspora, are a tremendous source of strength for the partnership," he added.

The government is providing attractive incentives to the industries and has rolled out sector-specific policies for Information Technology, Biotechnology, Electronics System Design & Manufacturing (ESDM) and Animation, Visual Effects, Gaming and Comics (AVGC), he said. The government has recently formulated a policy specifically to promote and incentivise research and development, he added.

Additional Chief Secretary Dr Ramana Reddy said the government was undertaking initiatives in line with achieving the vision set by the Prime Minister to make India a five-trillion dollar economy. Senior officers from the Indian consulate in San Francisco and US-India Strategic Partnership Forum also attended the event.

Was analysing Union govts in general, not criticising Centre: Madhuswamy

TUMAKURU: Minor Irrigation Minister J C Madhuswamy did a volte face on Tuesday as he clarified that he had neither criticised the current Union government led by Narendra Modi nor called it 'authoritative and dictatorial' in its policies. "Why should I criticise the government when I am a BJP minister? I had analysed the successive governments' policies over a period of time in seven decades as it would fuel regionalism. Anyway, it was a seminar and I had expressed my views in a broader context,", he added. Earlier, speaking about centralised NEET and CET examinations, the minister, at an event in Mysuru, had said that the Union government has been authoritative. ENS

Sex tape existed for past four months; Investigators checking if Shivakumar was part of the conspiracy

Did DKS 'weaponise' sleaze CD that was floating around?

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

DID KPCC president D K Shivakumar merely weaponise the sleaze CD and use the sex tape, which was already floating around. for political gains? Investigators, who are looking into the controversy, are trying to find out whether the CD was in existence for the last four months.

It is said that even former minister Ramesh Jarkiholi, who is allegedly the man appearing in the video, knew that the CD existed four months ago. Investigators are now checking if certain members of the gang had contacted Jarkiholi to extort him.

If many people, including Ramesh, knew about the CD, the big question is whether Shivakumar only used the explosive material, which was already available, for political ends.

The suspicion that the criminal gang might have employed a similar modus operandi to target other politicians and prominent personalities too is being probed.

Police deployed at Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Court, in Bengaluru, where the woman involved in the CD case was expected to give her statement on Tuesday | SHRIRAM BN

Sources said that Shivakumar may not have been part of the gang, which appears to be a professional, criminal setup. But he may have used it to target his arch-rival Jarkiholi, they added. Congress sources said that as a member of the opposition, it was Shivakumar's duty to bring to light the misdeeds of a member of the government.

Shivakumar on Tuesday alleged that the State Government "is actively supporting former Jarkiholi".

He said, "I have nothing to say on this. It is the former minister who is involved and the government is supporting him. I don't know why the government is protecting him." The woman's family has been blaming Shivakumar for the scandal and accusing him of playing dirty politics at the expense of their daughter.

Asked whether there was any pressure on the woman's parents to name him, he said, "Let them do whatever they want for their convenience. The investigation will happen, I don't want to speak much."

Did not get letter from SIT: DKS

Kalaburagi: KPCC president DK Shivakumar said in Kalaburagi that he had not received any letter from the SIT asking him to appear before it. "Why should they ask me to appear before them, when I am not connected with the case?" he said. However, if the SIT summons him, he would appear before it and cooperate with the agency. ENS

'Jarkiholi to join bypoll campaign'

Belagavi: Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa on Tuesday said that his government was handling the CD case with full responsibility to bring it to a logical end. Stating that CD-gate would not impact the bypolls, the CM said that Ramesh Jarkiholi would join the election campaign in Belagavi. Speaking to the media in Belagavi, Yediyurappa said the home minister was handling the case effectively. He said the investigation was going in the right direction. Denying that he was silent on the issue, the CM said he was getting regular updates and that his government was handling it effectively. ENS

The woman involved in the CD row arrives at the SIT office to record her statement in Bengaluru on Tuesday

Medical test on woman after investigation

SOON after court proceedings, the special investigation team (SIT) appealed to the court for voice samples and to question her in connection with the case under Section 161 of CrPC (examination of witnesses). High Security, provided to her around the court, was supervised by senior police officers.

The woman's lawyer, KN Jagadish Kumar, said, "SIT has not taken her into custody and she only recorded her statement. There is no question of taking her into police custody, while Ramesh Jarkiholi, who has been charged with rape, is out free. I demand that the SIT arrest Jarkiholi as she has recorded her statement before the court and the government has to prove that SIT is probing the case without any prejudice."

A senior police officer said the woman was questioned by the investigating officer at the SIT's Technical Cell in Adugodi. The woman told the officers that no one had kidnapped her and that she was at a place in isolation "as I have a life threat from Jarakiholi, who is an influential person. Even my family is being controlled by Jarkiholi."

She will be taken for medical tests once the investigation is over. SIT officials in their submission to the court said there were three cases related to the woman, filed at Cubbon Park, Sadashivnagar and RT Nagar police stations, which need to get her statements as part of the investigation. Senior police officials, including SIT chief Soumendu Mukharjee and Joint Commissioner of Police Sandeep Patil, oversaw the security at the court premises, where over 200 police personnel were deployed.

COVID RULEBOOK

Cong to hold small meetings, door-to-door campaign

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kalaburagi

THE diktat is clear: All processions, protests, parties are banned, but political sorts escape the clampdown. With by-elections round the corner, Karnataka Chief Secretary P Ravikumar said it's business as usual for netadom, where Covid-19 may fear to tread. Of course, there is a rider -- all Covid norms are to be adhered to.

The Congress is ready to play by the book on this front. Opposition Leader Siddaramaiah said his party is willing to abide by Covid protocol laid down by the government, and stressed the need to follow all procedures to control the epidemic.

Siddaramaiah told reporters that the second wave of Covid-19 is upon Karnataka, and there is an urgent need to arrest it. If the government decides to ban processions, protests and congregations of people for a fortnight, it would be good for the people, he added.

On its part, the Congress is willing to organise small group meetings instead of large rallies, and give preference to visiting homes to campaign.

On the other hand, KPCC chief Shivakumar said he is yet to study the orders banning processions, protests and gatherings, and questioned whether BJP leaders are following the orders too.

Both leaders, addressing the press separately, said their main poll issue is failure of the State government on all fronts, and rising prices of essential commodities. They said that though they have raised the issue of injustice to Kalyana Karnataka region by the government, there was no response to it.

Govt rolls out Karasamadhana scheme

BENGALURU: The state government has rolled out the Karasamadhana scheme 2021 which CM B S Yediyurappa ambitiously announced in the budget. The scheme grants full or partial waiver of arrears and interest payable under laws such as the Karnataka Sales Tax 1957, Karnataka Value Added Tax Act 2003, and Central Sales Tax Act 1956, Professions, Trades, Callings and Employment Tax Act, Karnataka Agricultural Income Tax Act, 1957, Karnataka Entertainment Tax Act, 1958, Karnataka Tax on Entry of Goods Act. Essentially the scheme has been introduced to complete the pre-GST legacy audit and clear tax arrears expeditiously. There are guidelines for the waiver of the penalty and interest subject to certain conditions. ENS

Second wave fears could ruin Hampi's tourism prospects

Officials also cite blistering summer heat acting as a dampener

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR @Hosapete

While Hampi saw 40,000 tourists in February, the same halved in March | EXPRESS

WITH the second wave of Covid-19 setting in, the tourism sector seems to be riding a wave of panic. Hampi, which otherwise would have had tourists from around the world making a beeline to behold its magnificent architectural gems, lies deserted today. Concern among guides, small businesses and vendors at this historical site is evident, considering the noticeable fall in the number of tourists, which could dip further if Covid cases continue their upward trajectory.

In February, over 40,000 tourists visited Hampi, which had gradually begun to see a resurgence of pre-Covid visitor footfalls. But the number almost halved to 20,000 in March. With mercury levels going northwards, a spike in Covid cases could prove a double whammy for local businesses.

An officer in the district administration said the government has already taken measures to control the second wave. Since a lot of tourists visit Hampi, the primary health centre here is ensuring a better environment for them. The PHC has all the facilities, including to check for Covid-19 like RAT test, and also two mobile vehicles, he added.

"Footfalls in Hampi dwindled in March. This can be linked not only to the pandemic, but the summer heat which also discourages visitors. However, the administration has taken all precautionary measures and visitors need not worry about Covid-19," he reassured.

Bharat Patil, a local vendor, said daily, the number of tourists is decreasing, which is a worrying sign. Last year, the pandemic brought loss to their business, which saw some improvement over the last few months. The second wave, however, can bring damage again in its wake. So the administration should ensure all safety measures and improve tourism, he appealed.

ANIMAL ATTACK

Beware! There's a rabid bear on the prowl

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

AN alert has been issued for an 80km area around Bannerghatta National Park (BNP) spanning Attibele, and up to Hosur in Tamil Nadu, asking people to beware of a wild sloth bear which has allegedly attacked six people.

Worryingly, forest officials suspect the bear is rabid, and have installed camera traps to track and capture it. Over 100 BNP staffers, Wildlife SOS, forest department, local police, three veterinarians, and darters are on the look out for the elusive animal which has been on the prowl since Sunday night.

"We have called out an alert and locals are requested not to venture out at night. Sloth bears are nocturnal. Since no tracks have been found from afternoon to evening, we suspect there could be some movement at night. Also, the animal has attacked six people between Monday night and Tuesday morning... This is the first time such an incident has occurred," a senior forest official seeking anonymity told TNIE.

Officials suspect that the bear they are looking for is the one captured from Tumakuru and brought to BBBP rescue centre and escaped on Sunday after attacking Jayashankar, the driver of the BBBP's Assistant Director for Veterinary Services.

"Tracks of the animal which escaped from the rescue centre have been seen. But whether it is the same animal needs to assessed. The location of the first attack - on an old man - in Anekal territorial range was 28km from where the tracks were found. Other incidents were reported from Kadubeesanahalli. The tracks were last seen on Tuesday evening near the eucalyptus plantations in Attibele. Since it has attacked six people in a span of 6-7 hours, we suspect it to be rabid. If so, it would die in 3-4 days. If not, it must be captured. We don't know the sex and age of the animal. The one captured from Tumkuru was a male aged 9 years," the official said.

Man held for raping minor step-daughter

ENS @Bengaluru

SAMPIGEHALLI police arrested a man for allegedly raping a minor, and threatening her against revealing about the crime to others. The accused is identified as Mohammed Sabbir (36), an auto driver, who is married to two women.

Police said the incident took place in June last year. Sabbir's second wife was in hospital for delivery. Meanwhile, the 15-year-old daughter of his first wife from a previous marriage was alone at home, and he allegedly sexually assaulted her. He also threatened her into keeping silent.

But a few days ago, she was taken for a medical test, when the doctors confirmed that she was pregnant. She finally revealed what had happened. Sabbir has been booked under the POCSO Act.

Upset over low earnings, cab driver sets self ablaze at KIA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

PANIC gripped the Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) after a cab driver attempted suicide by setting himself ablaze inside his cab on Tuesday. The driver was rescued by other drivers and was shifted to a hospital. It is said that he was frustrated with less income because of fewer trips.

The driver, Pratap (35) from Ramanagara, is registered with the Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation (KSTDC). The police said the incident occurred at the Arrivals pick-up point around 3 pm. Pratap, who parked the car in the middle of the road, closed the windows, doused himself in petrol and set himself ablaze. Other drivers rushed to his rescue, broke open the windshield, doused the fire and pulled him out. He has been admitted at the burns ward at Victoria Hospital. His condition is said to be critical.

> While cab aggregators are running trips at discounted prices, drivers attached to other players, like KSTDC, are hit hard
>
> Tanveer Pasha, president, Ola Uber Drivers and Owners' Association

Other drivers staged a protest and blamed private cab aggregators Ola and Uber for the incident. Tanveer Pasha, president, Ola Uber Drivers and Owners' Association, said, "While cab aggregators are running trips at discounted prices, drivers attached to other players, like KSTDC, are hit hard. Ola and Uber get a major share of the trips, but even their drivers are facing huge losses because of highly discounted fares. We had demanded the government to introduce a uniform fare to all taxis but it is not yet implemented," he said.

On the run for one year, elephant Kusha recaptured

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Madikeri

KUSHA, the tamed elephant that had escaped from captivity at Dubare Elephant Camp over a year ago, has been recaptured by the forest department. The 29-year-old male elephant is now at Meenukolli Reserve Forest area and will soon be shifted to Dubare.

The elephant, which had caused damage to farmlands across Chettalli area in Kodagu district, was captured over three years ago. He was trained by the mahouts at Dubare and became a resident of the camp alongside 27 other tamed pachyderms. However, Kusha was in musth a year ago, and escaped captivity during March 2020. He broke off the chains which kept him captive and escaped from the camp to join a herd of 17 other wild elephants.

Elephant was 2 steps ahead

While the forest department was involved in regular tracking of Kusha, he always outdid their efforts to trace and capture him. Nearly a week ago, Kusha was spotted at Kandakere forest area near Chettalli - his native forest - and a plan was laid to recapture him.

Four tamed male elephants - Dhananjaya, Prashantha, Sugreeva and Lakshmana, along with the forest department staffers and officials cornered Kusha near Meenukolli forest limits and recaptured him.

The elephant will soon be shifted to Dubare Elephant Camp and will undergo training for at least two months. The capture mission was led by department veterinarian Dr Mujeeb and DRFO KP Ranjan, alon with other staff, mahouts and elephant caretakers.

The Andhra Pradesh government on Tuesday said the outbreak of Covid-19 and the last minute SOPs implemented by the previous TDP regime had resulted in increased borrowings. The government said though it had to borrow heavily, unlike the previous regime, it did not borrow recklessly.

Is embracing the past the best way forward? Amish, Chitra debate

In the first session of the last day of TNIE's ThinkEdu Conclave 2021, the panelists mutually agreed that learning and embracing the past is the key to a glorious future. Amish Tripathi, Author and Director of Nehru Centre and Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni, Author and Professor of Writing, University of Houston were in conversation with Author and Senior Journalist Kaveree Bamzai.

The panelists opined that the British and the other invaders have rewritten India's glorious past, portraying themselves as heroes, while defacing Indian rulers, kings, legends and gods. Amish said that modern-day Indian historians too contributed to the 'nonsensical' trend. "There is a problem in the way in which our history is written, which is why we need authors like Chitra. Our modern history was written by colonial rulers and our modern historians continued with the same approach. Even relatively recent history defames Nawab Wajid Ali Shah and Duleep Singh. Very regrettably, our historians have carried on this nonsensical approach," said the author of the Shiva Trilogy and Ram Chandra Series. He added that our History books have wrongly portrayed that India was never a nation before the British Raj. "It is utter nonsense. The Vishwapuran has a lovely line describing our concept of nation. It is at least 2000 years old," he added. Chitra spoke about characters who have been pushed aside. Case in point, the protagonist of her new book, The Last Queen, "Rani Jindan was defamed by the British with a huge smear campaign against her."

Often there is colonial storytelling about our great characters or a patriarchal refashioning of women like Draupadi or Sita

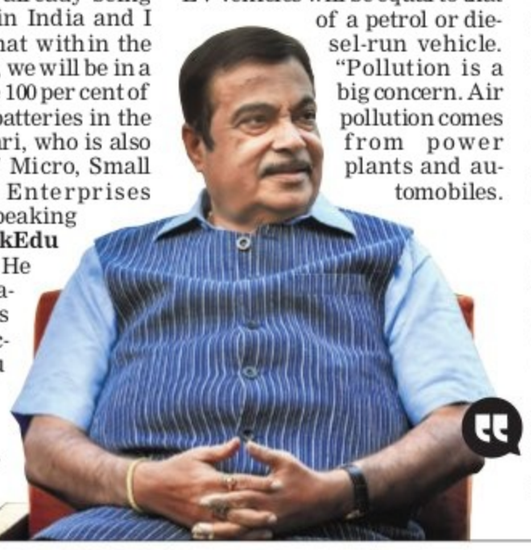
On the final day of the virtual edition of The New Indian Express' ThinkEdu Conclave 2021, Nitin Gadkari spoke extensively about EVs, rural India and where he wants to see it

EV COST EQUAL TO NORMAL CAR IN 2 YEARS

In what comes as good news for the futuristic electric vehicles (EVs) sector, Minister for Road Transport and Highways, Government of India, Nitin Gadkari said that, "About 81 per cent of lithium-ion batteries is already being manufactured in India and I am confident that within the next six months, we will be in a position to make 100 per cent of all lithium-ion batteries in the country." Gadkari, who is also the Minister of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSME), was speaking at TNIE's ThinkEdu Conclave 2021. He was in conversation with TNIE's Editorial Director Prabhu Chawla.

The MSME Minister cleared the air with regards to a "feeling in the market" that there is a shortage of lithium and said that it is not a problem at all. He also expressed belief in the fact that their other green moves will ensure that within the next two years, the prices of EV vehicles will be equal to that of a petrol or diesel-run vehicle. "Pollution is a big concern. Air pollution comes from power plants and automobiles. This is the time when we need to take action," he stated.



Gadkari also spoke about different sectors like education and health and the scope they offer. "We can build 600 medical colleges, 50 AIIMS, open 500 colleges for nursing, for paramedical courses — there is huge potential in the medical sector. With education and skill development, the health sector is important. We need to develop the young generation and give them facilities, like sports," said Gadkari.

Talking about communication, one of the major aspects of development, Gadkari said that while there was a lot happening when it comes to IT, electronics and Digital India, we need to start manufacturing hardware in India. "Now our petroleum import bill is ₹8 lakh crore. We need to develop computer and electronic hardware in the country. If we don't, our import bill, within five years, will be more than ₹25 lakh crore," he said. "As an MSME minister, my ministry contributes 30 per cent in the GDP growth and 48 per cent of the export of our country is from MSMEs. Until now, we have created 11 crore jobs. Our idea now is to take our contribution to 40 per cent, the 48 per cent export we want to take it up to 60 per cent and we are planning to create five crore new jobs. The village industry turnover is ₹88 thousand crore, within five years we want to make it five lakh crores," he added.

It is the responsibility of India to develop Bharat equally. We cannot discriminate against anybody on the basis of caste, creed, sex or religion. Socio-economic equality is important. We need to change our policies for that

Nitin Gadkari, Minister for Road Transport and Highways MSME

'India needs to quickly learn and unlearn'

The President of NASSCOM, Debjani Ghosh sat down with Kaveree Bamzai at TNIE's ThinkEdu Conclave 2021 to discuss how young Indians should be equipping themselves to enter and sustain in the IT industry. Ghosh said it is essential that we keep changing fast since technology is also changing exponentially.

"We need to find how quickly candidates can learn and unlearn. My advice to young people is to demonstrate their learnability. It will make them succeed in interviews. Another important aspect is having strong foundations and third is professional skills," Debjani said. She doesn't prefer to call it 'soft' skills anymore, "It is very important to have professional skills — communication, collaboration, design thinking, ability to influence people," she added.

Debjani Ghosh, President, NASSCOM

'India's digital transformation even faster than China'

While a large number of people are using the internet for good, there are also some who use it for purposes that are not right, whether it is hate speech of a certain kind or spreading content that shouldn't be easily accessible, said Ajit Mohan, VP and Managing Director, Facebook India. He was in conversation with Senior Journalist Kaveree Bamzai on the final day of TNIE's ThinkEdu Conclave 2021.

"It is our responsibility to ensure that we are investing in people and technology to create a safe and secure environment," Mohan added. He spoke about the internet revolution that India has witnessed over the last few years and how that has enabled 'explosive opportunities'. "A very large part of the country came alive in terms of accessing the internet in a very short amount of time. We had close to 600 million people who came online with access to affordable internet on mobiles. This kind of transformation, in both the scale and the pace, hasn't happened anywhere else, not even in China.

Ajit Mohan, VP and MD, Facebook India

Citing the example of WhiteHat Jr, which recently got acquired by BYJU's, Mohan highlighted the role Facebook plays in online education. "WhiteHat Jr went from zero to a company that was valued at $300 million and a lot of their market expansion was on Facebook and Instagram. They started targetting the US, almost at the same time they expanded in India. That gives you an idea about the potential in sectors like education. This is a model where you can connect the great teachers that India has to global demand from students," Mohan said.

2G missile launched against TN women: PM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Tiruppur

"THE defence corridor that is set to come up in Tamil Nadu will bring many benefits to the State. I will never forget the tank built in Tamil Nadu, which was dedicated to the nation on the northern border," said Prime Minister Narendra Modi in an election gathering seeking votes for the candidates in AIADMK-BJP alliance at Dharapuram on Tuesday. He said the State will also have a 'toy cluster' that will show the way for producing top-quality toys for the world, adding that the Centre has changed the criteria for MSMEs and as much as ₹14,000 crore were sanctioned for 3.6 lakh MSME units.

Modi claimed that around 1.5 lakh people related to MSMEs benefitted through interest subvention scheme, and 1.8 lakh units benefitted through credit-guaranteed fund trust scheme.

As the Prime Minister is known for touching upon Tamil saints and literary figures in his speeches, this time he picked up Andal and Avvaiyar, and said the National Democratic Alliance and he were inspired by their ideals and believed that the progress of the society is not complete without women empowerment.

Weaving his narrative around women and empowerment, Modi went on to seize the moment to unfailingly train his guns on the Opposition in Tamil Nadu and said a '2G missile' was launched against the women of the State. In a veiled reference to the recent controversial remarks made by a former Union Minister from DMK, he said, "The Congress and the DMK members have launched a '2G missile' against the women power of the State and have insulted the mother of Chief Minister. God forbid, if they come to power, they will insult many more women."

Citing the recent comments made by 'Dindigul' I Leoni, the PM said it was 'horrible' and a part of DMK-Congress culture to insult women.

Happy to share stage with Modi, gushes Byrati

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

THIS is not Humble Politician Nograj, but minister Byrati Basavaraj -- some years ago, a mere village panchayat member, but today an MLA and minister in Karnataka, and incharge of Dharapuram election in Tiruppur in Tamil Nadu. On Tuesday, he stood beside Prime Minister Narendra Modi on a public stage, and still cannot believe it.

Urban Development Minister Byrati Basavaraj later gushed to TNIE, "I am very happy that I could stand beside the PM, many senior leaders in the BJP have not had that opportunity. I joined the BJP just over a year ago and it feels so good to have shared the stage with the PM." With them on stage was district BJP president Dr Murugan, party candidate for Dharapuram who presented the PM with a memento, a metallic spear symbolic of Tamil culture.

Byrati has also been given charge of Aravakuruchi, where former Bangalore South DCP K Annamalai, aka Singham, who joined the BJP, is contesting. Annamalai and Byrati have gone around the lanes and bylanes of this large constituency in Tamil Nadu, campaigning for the BJP. He is also responsible for Modakurichi, where the BJP has fielded a woman candidate, Saraswati, and has campaigned in the oppressive heat and dust.

If he succeeds in doing well, the BJP would have broken into one of the most challenging political arenas so far.

Byrati rose from being a village panchayat member to corporator from Hoodi in the 2000s who contested as MLA and won in 2013, again in 2018, and for the third time after he switched from the Congress to BJP in 2019.

As Covid cases rise, TTD cuts darshan tokens to 15,000 from 22,000 a day

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Tirumala

WITH the spike in Covid-19 cases across the country, the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD) has decided to reduce the issuance of free Darshan (Sarva Darshan) tokens. The TTD is also reviewing its earlier decision to revive Arjitha Sevas from April 14 in view of the surge in Covid cases. It also issued a set of new guidelines for pilgrims visiting Tirumala.

"We have decided to reduce the issuance of Sarva Darshan tokens to 15,000 per day from the present 22,000 and this will be implemented from April 1," TTD Additional Executive Officer AV Dharma Reddy told mediapersons on Tuesday.

For April, 25,000 darshan slots of ₹300 ticket have already been booked. After reviewing the situation, the slots will either be cancelled or postponed, he said.

Ten TTD employees are among 69 new infections reported in Tirupati on Tuesday. "We reviewed the situation and decided to allow only 45,000 devotees per day to have darshan from April 1," he said.

Further, he said devotees should wear face mask compulsorily at Vaikuntam Queue Complex, Srivari temple, Anna Prasadam Bhavan, Kalyana Katta and other places. In the temple, the TTD has decided to resume the practices it followed during the pandemic.

"THOUGH it has been one year and one month since IT/ITES companies started work from home, the quality of work has not suffered. IT companies continue to get new projects, recruitments are happening, and the efficiency too has gone up," K S Viswanathan, Vice-President (Industry Initiatives), Nasscom, said.

The State Government employees, too, are appealing to Chief Secretary P Ravi Kumar to allow them to work from home or allow 50 per cent of the staff to work from office as there is a spike in Covid numbers.

Over 3,000 employees work at Vidhana Soudha, Vikasa Soudha and MS Building, and every day, thousands of people visit these offices. "We have kept a basic hand sanitiser and temperature checking machine. These are not enough to find out if a person is infected with Covid. A couple of staffers have already tested positive, and one of them is from the Irrigation Department," said Guruswamy, president, Karnataka State Secretariat Employees' Association. "Unlike the private sector, we cannot restrict the movement of people here," he added.

The private sector urged the government not to announce a lockdown again. "Industries are still suffering from the first lockdown and another one will be a disaster. They are sanitising the premises, asking their employees to wear masks all the time, and kept sanitisers. The government should open Covid vaccination for all, without any age limit. Industrial workers should be given priority, as they don't have the option of working from home," said Perikal M Sundar, president, FKCCI.

Chandrashekar Hebbar, president, Karnataka Pradesh Hotels and Restaurants Association, said that over 20 lakh people across the state, and 10 lak in Bengaluru, work in hotels, darshinis, bars, lodges and other places and free vaccination should be given to them on priority.

Labour Minister Shivaram Hebbar said he will discuss it with the Chief Minister. "Work from home is not possible for the labour class and lockdown is not on the cards at present. We will discuss the best way forward next week," he added.

LEARNINGS FROM THE SUEZ CANAL BLOCKAGE

The freeing of the giant container ship that was stuck in the Suez Canal for six days, MV Ever Given, should come as a huge relief for global trade. According to news reports, the ship is now headed for a port in Egypt where it will be thoroughly inspected for any damage to the vessel. As pointed out by most experts, the resumption of sea traffic on the canal is crucial to maintain supply chains and trade. Consider this: About 50 ships pass through the canal every day, carrying cargo valued at $9.5 billion daily. MV Ever Given is said to be carrying goods worth $1 billion. About 70% of international trade is conducted through the sea, which only underlines how important waterways are. Although sea traffic has resumed across the Suez, it is expected to take days before the backlog is cleared as more than 150 ships were reported to have been waiting on either side of the canal for Ever Given to be freed.

The Suez Canal blockade has already sparked a debate among experts and perhaps governments to explore alternative sea routes. The first and obvious call has been to resume trade through the old route of going around the African continent via the Cape of Good Hope. But that is clearly more time-consuming and probably not economically viable as it will push up the already high freight rates. Many shipping companies have also pointed out that this route is a security risk as many pirates operate in the region. But while the length of this route cannot be reduced through any human intervention, the menace of piracy is not an insurmountable problem. Since almost all countries have high stakes in maritime trade, it is in the interest of all nations to provide security to the merchant ships. Lastly, there could be a relook at the protocol on ships that pass through the canal. Ever Given is considered among the largest containers in the world and dislodging it from where it was stuck took almost a week. A smaller ship could have been freed in fewer days, disrupting supply chains for a shorter time and causing minimal loss.

CLEVER FREEBIE MOVES AND UNFAIR POLL EDGE

Make fair promises but dole out no freebies. That is what the model code of conduct for election demands from parties and governments. The fact is they find a way around that, exploiting the inherent loopholes and using technicalities as a shield. Kerala's rice distribution scheme is one such instance. Though the scheme for making available 10 kg of rice at ₹15 for the coming Vishu-Easter-Ramzan season was announced in the Budget, the distribution would happen closer to polls—a reason why the opposition raised the flag of foul play. The Election Commission, on its part, blocked the plan, only to be snubbed by the Kerala HC, which allowed the rice distribution to take place. Along with that, the distribution of food kits, a Covid-time programme that helped the LDF government bolster its welfare image and earn votes in the recent local body polls, will also go on. Besides, it is also distributing free rice and provision kits meant for schoolchildren enrolled in the midday meal programme after keeping the scheme pending for about eight months now. All in all, the Kerala voter can expect a bonanza before polls.

The row over freebies is something that has been playing out every election since 2011. If the outgoing V S Achuthanandan government announced ₹2/kg rice just ahead of polls in 2011, the Oommen Chandy administration came up with the free rice scheme for BPL families in 2016. Both the schemes ran into opposition but were ultimately cleared based on technicalities. While the new festive season rice scheme will benefit around 50 lakh families, the Covid-time food kits will reach 88 lakh families and the mid-day meal about 26 lakh students. Besides, the government is planning to distribute social welfare pension for April in advance, along with the pension for March, to nearly 50 lakh beneficiaries. What this means is that a large portion of Kerala's electorate will have fresh memories of the government's "generosity" when they head to the polling booth on April 6. The EC or courts are helpless here as these aren't exactly new announcements and hence beyond the scope of the election code. Though rules of propriety and fair play demand that the government should wait till the polls are over, it is obviously in a hurry. By going ahead with the distribution of freebies, the ruling LDF has handed itself an unfair electoral advantage.

While today's consumer values both time and money with some degree of yin and yang equity, tomorrow's consumer is likely to prefer the former more

THE WORLD'S NEW SUPER-CURRENCY WAITS FOR NO MAN

HARISH BIJOOR
Brand Guru & Founder, Harish Bijoor Consults

SOUMYADIP SINHA

There are two currencies in our life. One is money, which we know so well, and the other is time. Today's generation in particular dabbles with both, whereas generations gone by devoted their lives to the primary quest of money and money alone. That one currency that brings it all in. The idea was simple. Money can buy it all, so go after it. Money is comfort candy.

What's different now? We live in the midst of a generation that worships two gods in the currency market. This is a generation that believes in the value of time as well. And this generation seems to have got it right. There is a fallacy in the chase of one currency, primarily money. Money can be earned and topped up, whereas time (the new precious currency to chase) cannot. Time can only be spent, whereas money can be earned and spent as well.

The future looks even more interesting. While today's consumer values both time and money with some degree of yin and yang equity, tomorrow's consumer is likely to value one more than the other. And the balance seems to be tilted towards time.

Take a piece of research I have just emerged from. This is not a research exercise that has involved pure and overt consumers alone. It has explored the soft consumer as well. The non-consumer, even. This exercise covers a total of 18,450 people all across India, parts of Southeast Asia, the UK, Turkey and a whole new constituency in my research that I call the "Virtuaworld". Virtuaworld is all about the new consumer who is on digital platforms. This is a consumer who can live anywhere in the world, but behaves just like any other on this medium. The Utopian consumer. I treat the Virtuaworld consumer as a virtual geography of its own.

This study covers homemakers, tech workers, gig workers, permanent job holders, students, and seven other categories of interest, including a very small sample size of sex workers.

The key point we tried to eke out of this research exercise was how important time is to them all as opposed to money in 2021. And the key answer that we got was one that must jolt many a home, many a business and many a government agency that takes care of the welfare of its people. In 2021, people all across these geographies value time more than money. When pushed to think, the value of time is rated 61% important as opposed to the obvious currency of money at a less-robust 39%.

All of us really know it. There is obvious currency in our lives, issued by the central banks of countries, and then there is the unobvious currency that is issued out by our lifespans. While both currencies remain rather unpredictable to acquire, hoard and manage, I do believe the role of the unobvious currency of time is set to rise. The era ahead of us, if not the one we live in today, is all about time, its utility, saving, harvesting and worship.

The one big consumer movement I see ahead is the movement that will want to hoard time as opposed to money. The homemaker will want to assess and plan how she will use her time just as much as the overt consumer will want all businesses he or she interacts with to do so for her. Time is the super-currency of our lives.

> Businesses of every kind need to rejig their offerings keeping the currency of time in mind. ... They need to releverage their marketing and sales promotion efforts to worship the second god. Saving time is emerging to be more important than saving money

If we do accept this, money loses its pre-eminent status on our corporate balance sheets all of a sudden. Yes, it is a good and common metric to measure success or failure with, but there is a more important god to worship at our doorstep: the god of time.

Businesses of every kind—whether you are a milk vendor, beauty parlour, gym, restaurant, telecom service provider or financial services player—need to rejig their offerings keeping the currency of time in mind. Most businesses you and I interact with are all based on the obvious currency of money. You go to a shop and there is a discount on the pack of coffee you are about to buy. Businesses of the future need to releverage their marketing and sales promotion efforts to worship the second god. Saving time is emerging to be more important than saving money.

Technology, then, and businesses that leverage technology are on the right and fast track in the future. Technology is a time-saving friend. Technology and every piece of software as a service (SaaS) and app you use is doing just this. The tech business of every kind is therefore on track to be in clover. Time clover.

Are there threats to some businesses? What about those of entertainment and sport that just gobble up every bit of time there is? Watching an IPL match at a stadium or within the confines of your home or restaurant is possibly gobbling up three hours of your time (and let's not speak of cricket of the one-day and five-day kind). If you are watching it in the stadium, you might be spending ₹900, and in-home it looks like you are spending next to nothing. But think. You are actually spending ₹900 and three hours at the stadium and possibly the same number of hours and next to nothing within home.

Is the sports and entertainment industry in for a bit of stress as people start valuing their time more than money? This seems far away, but then, is it really?

Every business thus needs to releverage its offerings keeping the god of time in mind as opposed to the god of money alone as in the good old days. In the bad new days, every business needs to put on its balance sheet, and indeed in its DNA, a whole new currency called time.

THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONALISM OF INDIA

VINAY SAHASRABUDDHE
President, ICCR, and BJP Rajya Sabha MP

After 2014, two terms have dominated our public discourse significantly. The first one is Nationalism and the second Democracy. Recently, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, in an interview to a channel, deftly dealt with these issues. Nationalism, as explained by him, needn't be seen as a bad word. Rightly dismissing reports that India is facing democratic backsliding under the current dispensation, he forcefully argued that the country does not need approval or tedious moral lectures from a "set of self-appointed custodians of the world". He was forthright in saying that these custodians "find it very difficult to stomach that somebody in India is not looking for their approval, is not willing to play the game they want to be played ... so they invent their rules, their parameters, they pass their judgments and then make out as though this is some kind of global exercise".

In the case of nationalism, attempts to denigrate the very concept have been there for a long time. Especially during the heydays of colonialism, when large numbers of countries were ruled by European powers, a certain kind of negativity was deliberately attributed to the term nationalism. However, the fact remains that without the emergence of nationalism—with strong national spirit at its core—overthrowing colonial regimes wouldn't have been possible. Later, understandably, in the early days of globalisation again, efforts were made to denigrate nationalism. But in spite of all these, nationalism continues to inspire people, influence their thinking and integrate communities. Nationalism, unlike any other isms, unites people as pure patriotism is the foundation of national spirit.

Simply put, patriotism is the love for your motherland. It is not a construct. It is a natural instinct because your motherland gives you an identity. Again, social scientists who used to dismiss identity as a primordial feeling today accept its importance in shaping the lives of the people. Identity provides you a particular recognition. Regardless of the famous Shakespearean question 'What's in a name?', the fact remains that a name provides you a distinct and unique identity. Conscious of the historical role played by identity in strifes and struggles of humanity, social scientists today insist on using the term 'salad bowl' in place of 'melting pot' while describing the demography of cities like Mumbai or New York. This is because the former allows one to retain one's individualism while being a part of a common, collective identity. In this backdrop, the importance of nationalism requires no elaboration. Further, it is absolutely illogical to pit nationalism against internationalism. If one's family identity can peacefully coexist with regional identity, why can't nationalism and internationalism go hand in hand? Identity is always evolving. Vinobha Bhave gave the call for Jai Jagat, without rubbishing the call for Jai Hind! Both, the importance and limitations of smaller identities, need to be realised to have a larger and all encompassing identity established in a globalised world. India is a scintillating example of multiple identities coexisting peacefully on the twin pillars of mutuality of respect and commitment to harmony.

> Attempts to denigrate the very concept of nationalism have been there for a long time. However, without its emergence, overthrowing colonial regimes wouldn't have been possible. Nationalism continues to inspire people.... Ours is essentially a democratic nationalism, a point largely missed by the West while applying their yardsticks to us

And here lies the foundation of our success on the front of political democracy. Remember, democracy has not been imported into India. It has been there in our blood since time immemorial. Our political democracy is built on the solid foundation of our spiritual democracy, and now we are marching ahead under PM Modi's leadership towards strengthening our social and economic democracies.

Notably, the term secularism was not in our preamble because the overarching spirit of accommodation has been the bedrock of Indian democracy. It was Dr Ambedkar's courage of conviction—rooted in his commitment to justice, equality and fraternity—that empowered him to refuse the demand for incorporating terms like socialist and secular in the preamble of our Constitution. And from where did his courage of conviction come? In an All India Radio broadcast speech on 3 October 1954, he declared: "Positively, my social philosophy, may be said to be enshrined in three words: liberty, equality and fraternity. Let no one, however, say that I have borrowed my philosophy from the French revolution. I have not. My philosophy has roots in religion and not in political science. I have derived them from the teachings of my Master, the Buddha. In his philosophy, liberty and equality had a place."

This is an oblique recognition of the fact that both, our nationalism as well as our democracy, hinge upon our cultural moorings. It was not for no reason that the BJP has been emphasising upon cultural nationalism. Ekam Sat, Vipra Bahuda Vadanti is the millennia-old manifesto of our spiritual/ cultural democracy, whereas Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam is the lofty ideal reminding us that eventually we have to graduate from nationalism to universalism. These foundational concepts liberate our nationalism from the temptations of jingoism and supremacism. Therefore, our nationalism is essentially a democratic nationalism, a point largely missed by the West while applying their yardsticks to us.

Fake voters in Kerala

It is heartening to note that the Kerala High Court has given directions to the Election Commission to ensure the prevention of duplicate votes in the upcoming Assembly election in the state. The margin of victory in seats in Kerala is small and the presence of four lakh fake voters can definitely affect the outcome.

Political violence in WB

Shova Majumdar, a BJP worker's mother who was allegedly beaten up by Trinamool cadre, has died. The reactions of TMC leaders to the death of the 85-year-old woman can only be described as unfortunate. Mamata may not believe in violence but her party cadre certainly do.
K R Jayaprakash Rao, Mysuru

Will party take any action?

This is with reference to DMK leader's despicable abuse of CM's mother (Mar 30). DMK MP and party deputy general secretary A Raja's derogatory remark against the deceased mother of the TN chief minister is highly condemnable. Though police cases have been filed, it will be more appropriate if the DMK takes action against him. But as has been observed, DMK leader M K Stalin appears to be soft on the issue.
S Nallasivan, Tirunelveli

Anger throughout state

The unsavoury remark by the DMK leader close on the heels of his 'slipper' comment has created anger throughout the state. The Election Commission should be swift in taking action against leaders who make such comments.
R Pichumani, Kumbakonam

Stop personal attacks

The DMK leader's abuse of the chief minister's mother is unfortunate. At a time when the party is confident of its success in the Tamil Nadu elections, this remark will hurt it, especially with voters in the Western region. As mentioned, party leaders should focus on development and social welfare, and not resort to such personal attacks.
S Chockalingam, Kottaram

EC should punish them

Using expletives has become the order of the day during electioneering now. The leaders don't feel any guilt, although some take them back later due to public outcry, as happened in the current instance. The EC and courts should take such outbursts seriously and impose stringent punishment.
K Nehru Patnaik, Visakhapatnam

Another DMK MP at it

A few days after the remarks against the TN chief minister's mother, another DMK MP was at it again. Former Union Minister Dayanidhi Maran is reported to have made similar vulgar comments directed against former TN chief minister J Jayalalithaa and the current prime minister. It seems the DMK leaders never learn.
S Ravi, Chennai

Setting a wrong example

Over the last few years, political speech including those by spokespersons of parties has gone from bad to worse. Whether it is the PM or CMs belonging to all parties, they have more than once made such remarks unintentionally or otherwise in the heat of campaigning, setting a wrong example.
N Nagarajan, Secunderabad

Observation preposterous

This is with reference to The Ashoka imbroglio: guide to the perplexed (Mar 30). The observation that some universities have deliberately recruited government baiters who spend most of their time taking potshots at the dispensation while ignoring their primary responsibilities as professors and lecturers is preposterous. If that were the case, the students would not have rallied around the professors.
CV Aravind, Bengaluru

Welcome HC verdict

The Kerala HC has rightly stayed the poll panel's fiat halting rice distribution citing election in the state. Distribution of rice should be seen only as the continuation of the ongoing social welfare measures in Kerala.

Campaign ends for second phase, BJP and Left candidates allege attack by ruling party

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

THE high-decibel election campaign for the second phase of Assembly elections reached its peak before coming to an end on Tuesday evening. TMC and BJP were focussed on staging a show of strength by engaging heavyweights.

While the saffron camp held roadshows involving Union Home Minister Amit Shah and actor Mithun Chakrabarty, Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee addressed three rallies throughout in Nandigram, from where she is contesting against Suvendu Adhikari.

In an incident of stone-pelting, former cricketer Ashok Dinda, who is contesting from Moyna constituency in East Midnapore, was injured and admitted to hospital. The former cricketer alleged stone were hurled at his car and he suffered injuries on the neck and shoulder. The Election Commission has sought a report from the district administration. CPI(M) candidate Minakshi Mukherjee also alleged TMC supporters attacked her roadshow.

Hitting out at Mamata, Shah said her ouster will bring some much-desired change in the state. "Bengal's voters are set to bring change in the state's politics. It will start with the defeat of Mamata Banerjee," he said.

Referring to an alleged incident of rape of a homemaker in Nandigram on Monday night, Shah alleged women in Bengal are unsafe. "A woman near Mamataji's house in Nandigram was raped. It reflects how unsafe women are in Bengal."

In Nandigram, Mamata's vehicle was surrounded by a group of BJP supporters who raised the Jay Sri Ram slogan. She, however, did not react and sat in her car.

Shah exuded confidence that Adhikari will win by a record margin. "I bow my head before the people of Nandigram for coming out in support of the BJP. Today when I came here, I saw jubilant faces everywhere on the road. I want to express my gratitude to the people of Nandigram. Now, I am confident that Suvendu Adhikari will win," he stated.

Shah said the saffron party's victory margin "should be so big that no politician would dare to fool the masses with false promises ever again".

'BJP importing goons to hound voters in Bengal'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

MAMATA Banerjee spares no chance to accuse BJP of worngdoing. On the last day of campaigning before the second polls on April 1, the West Bengal Chief Minister said the saffron party has brought in people from adjoining states to terrorise voters.

She said that people from her constituency were hounded out by BJP goons and urged Election Commission to take note. "Villagers are being hounded out of Balarampur by BJP goons. The EC must ensure their safety," she said. Mamata was also seen consoling family members of those allegedly hounded out.

She sounded confident of a massive win. In a veiled threat to her opponent Suvendu Adhikari, Mamata said, "They (police forces from outside) will be here only for a few days. Make no mistake, we will be back and give the betrayers a befitting reply."

Mamata also alerted the people of Nandigram of possible attacks. "They (BJP) have plans to kill their own people and pass it off as our handiwork to engineer riots. We have information. Be on guard," she said.

"Nandigram stood united in the battle against forcible land acquisition in which people from all communities participated. Be on guard against any bid to fuel tension by keeping any object in places of worship. We are united."

Referring to the controversy over an audio clip in which Mamata was heard cajoling a BJP leader from Nandigram to help her win the seat, she said that she had indeed called him up after learning that he wanted to talk to her. "I told him to keep well, to take care of his health. So what is my crime?" the TMC supremo said.

"As a candidate of the constituency, I can seek the help of any voter, I can call up anyone. There is no harm in that," the TMC supremo said. "If someone makes the conversation viral, that is an offence. Action should be taken against those who did that."

A controversy erupted amid the first phase of polling after BJP released an audio clip in which Mamata was heard talking to a former TMC leader who has joined BJP. "You should help us win Nandigram. I know you have some grievances, but that's due mostly to the Adhikaris who didn't let me come here."

Cong writes to EC for campaign ban on Himanta

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati/New Delhi

THE Congress on Tuesday approached the Chief Election Commissioner, seeking an FIR against BJP leader Himanta Biswa Sarma and sought a ban on him campaigning for the rest of the state elections.

Sarma allegedly threatened to send Bodoland People's Front (BPF) chief Hagrama Mohilary to jail by 'misusing' the National Investigation Agency (NIA). The BPF is a component of the Congress-led grand alliance.

The Congress said that the minister, who is contesting from Jalukbari, last week made vicious threats against Mohilary and added that this was an attempt to influence voters against Congress, BPF and their alliance. "Himanta Biswa Sarma made blatant, scandalous and intimidating statements wherein he openly threatened BPF chairperson Hagrama Mohilary of sending him to jail by misusing the central agency, NIA," the Congress wrote to the Commission.

"By the said threat, Sarma has attempted to influence the voters to not vote for the Congress alliance, including BPF... He has sought to cast a malicious and malafide impression on the public that on account of the undue strength of the BJP-led Central government manning the central agencies, he is in an undue position to control/misuse the NIA and hence, capable of sending Mohilary to jail," added the letter.

A BJP heavyweight, Sarma had on Monday stated that the BPF chief would be jailed if found "encouraging" former militant leader MD Batha to return to the jungle. The police recently said a group of former rebels, led by Batha, had returned to the jungle.

Congress requested the Commission to exercise its powers under Article 324 of the Constitution and take action.

Probe ordered into ex-Mumbai top cop's allegations

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mumbai

THE Maharashtra government on Tuesday announced that a one-member committee headed by a retired high court judge would probe the damning allegations of former Mumbai Police commissioner Parambir Singh against home minister Anil Deshmukh.

Retired HC judge Kailash Uttamchand Chandiwal will head the panel and submit its report within six months, it added. "In the given framework, the probe should be conducted and the report should be submitted in the next six months. And, for the allowance of the one-member committee, a separate order will be issued," the government said.

In his letter to Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray, Singh claimed that Deshmukh gave a target to collect Rs 100 crore from bars and restaurants to police officer Sachin Waze. Deshmukh has denied the allegations.

The senior police officer also claimed that the Home Minister had on several occasions instructed officers on how to handle cases and file charges, often summoning them to his home to "bypass" him and other seniors.

Singh has filed a petition seeking a CBI probe into his allegations against Deshmukh and that is likely to be heard on Wednesday in the Bombay High Court. Earlier, Deshmukh had written to Uddhav demanding a probe in an allegations made by the former Mumbai Police Commissioner. The minister claimed that he is ready for probe and the truth would come out after investigation. He also said that he will file the defamation suit against Singh for making 'baseless' allegations.

In his weekly column last Sunday, senior Shiv Sena leader and MP Sanjay Raut demanded that Anil Deshmukh should step down for his failure in handling the home ministry and creating the mess in Mumbai Police.

India backs UN on comprehensive ceasefire in Afghanistan, says EAM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, who is in Tajikistan on a two-day trip to attend the Heart of Asia ministerial meeting, said that India backs a regional process under the UN for a political settlement in Afghanistan.

"Durable peace in Afghanistan requires a genuine double peace or peace within Afghanistan and peace around Afghanistan. It requires harmonising the interests of all, both within and around that country," the minister said.

The Heart of Asia-Istanbul Process is a 15-member regional initiative aimed at finding a lasting solution in war-torn Afghanistan. Its members include China, Iran, Russia, Pakistan and other central Asian countries. The UN-backed process was first suggested by US Secretary of State Antony Blinken, who expressed concern at New Delhi being kept out of processes like extended Troika.

"India welcomes any move towards a genuine political settlement and a comprehensive and permanent ceasefire in Afghanistan. We appreciate the international recognition of foundational principles that will determine their contours. We support a regional process to be convened under the aegis of the United Nations. UN stewardship would help to take into account all relevant UN resolutions and improve the odds for a lasting outcome," Jaishankar said. Saying that the situation in Afghanistan remains a concern, he said violence and bloodshed are daily realities and that the conflict has shown little sign of abatement.

"The continued involvement of foreign fighters in Afghanistan is particularly disturbing. Heart of Asia members and supporting countries should, therefore, make it a priority to press for an immediate reduction in violence leading to a permanent and comprehensive ceasefire," Jaishankar said.

Jaishankar also held meetings with the foreign ministers of Kazakhstan and Turkey and Afghan President Ashraf Ghani. Though touted widely that he will talk to the Pakistan Foreign Minister, both camps have said no such meeting is on the cards.

Imran welcomes Modi's suggestion to solve Indo-Pak issues through dialogue

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

PAKISTAN Prime Minister Imran Khan has responded to Narendra Modi's Pakistan Day letter stressing that all outstanding issues between the two countries, including the Kashmir dispute, be solved through dialogue.

"The people of Pakistan also desire peaceful, cooperative relations with all neighbours including India. We are convinced that durable peace and stability in South Asia is contingent upon resolving all outstanding issues between India and Pakistan, in particular the Jammu and Kashmir dispute," Khan wrote in a letter dated March 29.

Modi in his letter on March 22 had said India desires cordial relations with the people of Pakistan. "For this, an environment of trust, devoid of terror and hostility is imperative," he had said.

The letter was seen as a peace gesture to Pakistan. However, officials played it down saying it was a routine practice for New Delhi to send a letter to Islamabad on the occasion of Pakistan Day.

Khan, in his letter, also stressed that creation of an enabling environment is imperative for a constructive and result-oriented dialogue. Relations between India and Pakistan seem to be on the upswing since the joint statement issued by the DGMOs in February reiterating their commitment to strictly enforce the 2003 ceasefire.

Many statements, seen to be soft towards India, have emerged from Pakistan's top political and military leadership since Pakistan Army Chief General Qamar Bajwa urged India to bury the past and move forward. Bajwa also said his military was ready for dialogue on Kashmir. Ties between the countries spiraled after the Centre in August 2019 repealed Article 370 and bifurcated J&K into two Union Territories. Reports suggested peace was brokered by the UAE and ceasefire enforcement was only the start.

Flyers may be fined on spot for violating norms

Covid rules compliance by passengers unsatisfactory, says DGCA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

AVIATION regulator Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) on Tuesday asked airports to increase surveillance to ensure Covid-19 norms are followed and consider imposing 'spot fines', with the help of police authorities, on passengers who are found not wearing masks properly and not maintaining social distancing.

The DGCA noted that compliance of some airports to Covid-19 guidelines wasn't satisfactory. Airport operators have been asked to enhance surveillance and explore the possibility of some sort of punitive action against Covid protocol violators at airports. Such fines, it is believed, would serve as a deterrent for violation of Covid protocol at the airport. Airports have already been given a strict SOP as part of the measures being taken to contain the spread of the novel coronavirus as India stares at a second wave.

On March 13, the DGCA had asked airports and airlines to ensure that passengers wear a mask and maintain social distance at all times during air travel. As per the guidelines, violators can be handed over to the airport security if they refuse to comply. Airlines have also been given instructions of taking action against 'unruly' passengers by placing them in the no-flier list.

"All airport operators are requested to ensure that the instructions on protocol from the standpoint of wearing face mask, covering nose and mouth, as well as maintaining social distance norms within the airport premises," the circular said.

Situation is going from bad to worse, vaccinate 45+ in 2 weeks: Centre

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

THE Centre on Tuesday warned that the Covid-19 situation in India is getting from bad to worse and asked districts with high caseloads to ensure 100% vaccination of all above 45 within the next two weeks.

The warning came as the country recorded over 4 lakh new cases over the past one week, registering 58,000 daily cases on an average and a growth rate of nearly 7% active cases.

On Sunday, over 68,000 new cases were reported — the most in a day since October and about half of them were from Maharashtra. "We are facing an increasingly severe and intensive situation in some districts but the whole country is potentially at risk. All efforts to contain the virus and save lives should be taken," said V K Paul, member, health at Niti Aayog and chairman of the national Covid-19 task force. "Trends show the virus is still very active and enter our defences, just when we think we can control it, it sparks back," he added.

With the Covid vaccination window for all above 45 years of age opening from Thursday, the Union health ministry said those without pre-registrations (walk-ins or onsite registration) can get vaccines only after 3 pm and not in the forenoon session.

Meanwhile, in a letter to the chief secretaries of all states, Union health secretary Rajesh Bhushan said many districts in the country are seeing clusters of cases emerging because of specific events and places where crowding happens or where large gatherings are not following Covid appropriate behaviour. "Some districts that saw a high number of cases in August-November are again seeing a high growth rate of cases," said the letter.

The secretary has said where there are clusters of cases, simply quarantining individuals or families will not help and larger containment zones with clear boundaries and stringent controls must be implemented. Importantly, all districts with high case load and fast growth of cases have been asked to ensure 100% saturation of Covid-19 vaccination of the priority group of age 45 and above, in the coming two weeks.

There are 47 districts in these two categories and the vaccination for all above 45 without any condition begins from April 1. The states have also been asked to focus on mortality reduction by examining indicators such as case fatality rate and its growth, identifying localities and hospitals where deaths are high and doing death analysis to understand the system related issues of why the deaths are happening.

'89 million will be thrown back into poverty'

NEW DELHI: India's economic output in 2021 is expected to remain below the levels of 2019, a report by a UN body said on Tuesday.

The Social and Economic Survey of Asia and the Pacific (UNESCAP), undertaken by the United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific said the lockdown in India caused economic disruptions that burdened the second quarter of 2020.

"Despite a robust reduction in new Covid cases and the start of vaccine roll-out, India's 2021 economic output is expected to remain below the 2019 level," the report said.

The report also stated that the pandemic will force another 89 million back into extreme poverty (persons earning less than ₹145 or $1.9 per day). It noted that countries in the region, including India, will have a K-shaped recovery. ENS

Maha govt divided over lockdown as cases surge

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE Maha Vikas Aghadi government is divided over imposing lockdown in Maharashtra following a rise in Covid-19 cases. CM Uddhav Thackeray is reportedly in favour of the lockdown while alliance partners Congress and NCP have gone along with the BJP in opposing the second lockdown. Instead, they have demanded stringent containment measures.

Uddhav had earlier asked the state health task force to prepare a plan for the lockdown if the number of cases did not come down. However, NCP minister Nawab Malik said his party told the CM that the state could not afford the second lockdown. "The pandemic has broken the economic cycle. Unlike last year, people have just started coming out from the financial crisis, factories are running and things are quite better. If the government reimposes the lockdown, the poor will suffer the most. Lockdown should be kept as a last resort," said the NCP minister.

Former CM Prithviraj Chavan demanded financial compensation for the people who would lose their means of earning in case a lockdown was imposed. He said if health experts favoured a lockdown even though elected representatives have a different opinion, then a lockdown for limited days should be considered in containment areas. "The salary of MLAs and MP's should be deducted, if required, to partially make up for the funds to be made available for the affected people," said Chavan.

State BJP chief Chandrakant Patil also demanded cash compensation of ₹5,000 to be directly transferred to the poor people's accounts before considering a second lockdown.

Door-to-door Covid jab unlikely for now, Centre signals

NEW DELHI: The Centre on Tuesday denied that it had received a request by the Maharashtra government to carry out door-to-door Covid-19 vaccination for those who cannot go to hospitals to take the jabs.

"To date, we haven't received any specific request from Maharashtra government," said Union health secretary Rajesh Bhushan at a press briefing but added that there was no precedence of such a practice. "In India, we do universal Immunisation (for kids), but even there we have not done door-to-door vaccination for vaccines that are administered through injections," he said.

The reply by the Union Health Ministry says amid reports came out that the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation has written to the Centre requesting it to allow conducting door-to-door vaccination for the elderly and differently abled who are unable to move and travel long distances. Mumbai is the second worst-hit city in the country as of now with a total number of active Covid19 cases only below Pune. Bhushan said the Covid-19 vaccination programme involves adult vaccination. It may involve adverse events following immunisation which needs to be monitored, he added.

There have been some reports in local media in Maharashtra which suggested that the health ministry has "rejected the BMC's request to allow door-to-door vaccination of debilitated senior citizens, the visually impaired and those with physical disabilities".

The reason for denying this permission, the reports said, was that the Centre "does not have any such policy". ENS

Manipur revokes no-refugee order

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

THE Manipur government has withdrawn a 'confidential' circular which directed the District Magistrates of five districts to not open camps to provide food and shelter to people fleeing coup-hit Myanmar. It is assumed that the instruction was withdrawn to avoid potential public anger.

In a fresh circular issued to the DMs of Chandel, Tengnoupal, Kamjong, Ukhrul and Churachandpur, all of which share borders with Myanmar, Manipur's Special Secretary (Home), H Gyan Prakash wrote: "It appears that the contents of the letter have been misconstrued and interpreted differently. The state government has been taking all humanitarian steps and had recently taken all steps, including taking them to Imphal, to treat the injured Myanmarese nationals. The state government continues to provide all aid".

The previous instruction was issued on March 26. "In order to avoid this misunderstanding, I am directed to convey the decision of the government that it has decided to withdraw the letter dated 26.03.2021," said the second letter.

In the earlier circular, the government had directed that Myanmarese nationals trying to enter/seek refuge in Manipur should be politely turned away but in case of grievous injuries, medical attention may be provided on humanitarian consideration. It had also directed that Aadhar enrolment should be stopped and Aadhar enrolment kits kept in safe custody.

"District administration should not open any camps to provide food and shelter. The civil society organisations should also not be allowed to open any camps to provide shelter/food," read the previous the circular.

Mission UP: Congress appoints 3 new V-Ps, 13 gen secretaries

NEW DELHI/LUCKNOW: Eyeing the 2022 elections in Uttar Pradesh, the Congress on Tuesday released a list of 69 new office-bearers, including three vice-presidents and 13 general secretaries.

The list also includes 53 secretaries of the UP PCC. Vishva Vijay Singh, Gyadin Anuragi and Deepak Kumar are the three new-vice presidents, taking the tally of vice-presidents to eight. Through the new appointments, the leadership has tried to placate the old horses who were sulking alleging marginalisation.

"The Congress president has granted approval to the recomendations of expansion of the UP Congress Committee with immediate effect," an official release said.

The appointments come at a time when the state unit is caught in factionalism and many senior leaders are sidelined. Also, panchayat polls are slated from April 15 in UP. The new general secretaries are Sanjeev Sharma, Pushpendra Singh, Rahul Richhariya, Anshu Tiwari, Sushil Passi, Phul Kunwer, Shyam Sunder Upadhyay, Shiv Pandey (protocol and arrangements), Dhirendra Pratap Singh 'Dhiru', Devendra Pratap Singh, Tribhuvan Narain Mishra, Maninder Mishra and Kumud Gangwar.

With the appointment of 13 new general secretaries, and 53 new secretaries, the party has tried to appoint in-charge for each of the total 75 districts. Many young faces have got prominent positions in the expansion. The party is busy strengthening its organisation at rural level with several kisan panchayats and local outreach programmes. Senior leaders are trying to chalk out a strategy for the local polls. ENS

Intellectuals seek bail for Stan Swamy

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

ACTIVISTS, intellectuals, filmmakers and economists have demanded immediate release of Stan Swamy, the 83-year-old Christian priest arrested under the stringent UAPA for supporting Maoists.

The statement signed by more than 2,500 people seeks to remind the government that "bail is the rule and is not an exception." The NIA arrested Swamy on October 8 last year in a case related to violence that erupted at an event to mark 100 years of the Bhima-Koregaon battle in Maharashtra on Jan 1, 2018, leaving one dead and several others injured. The appeal made by activists stated that rejection of bail was beyond comprehension as the elderly and ailing Swamy had limited mobility and that he had no history of violence. The signatories said they knew Swamy as an exceptionally gentle, honest and selfless person.

"He has spent decades in Jharkhand working for the rights of the Adivasis and underprivileged. It is ironic that while public support for Stan Swamy continues to grow, the court has rejected the bail application in the "community's interest," the statement stated.

The appeal said it was clear that fake documents were planted into the computers of the accused in the case. According to the statement released on Tuesday, Adivasis, Gram Sabhas, civil society, several political leaders and parties, and Jharkhand CM himself have condemned the arrest and expressed support and solidarity with him.

Life term for SIMI activists for links with Indian Mujahideen

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

THE Jaipur district court has given life sentence to 12 alleged SIMI members, arrested in 2014 for their links to the terror outfit Indian Mujahideen. One youth has been acquitted.

Besides life term, the convicts have been fined ₹1.5 lakh each. They, all engineering students, were arrested by the ATS and Special Operations Group of Rajasthan Police.

The suspects were arrested from Jaipur, Sikar, Pali and Jodhpur following inputs from the ATS Delhi which had interrogated some terror suspects. The Rajasthan ATS registered an FIR on March 28, 2014. The youths were allegedly acting as sleeper cells.

The convicted youths have also been found guilty of buying SIMs through fake documents, raising funds in the name of 'jihad', giving shelter to terrorists and identifying places for bombings. The ATS had recovered laptops, phones, pen drives, books, documents and gadgets from them.

China throttles liberty, cuts HK elected seats

Unilaterally reduces their count to just 20, assumes power to vet all the candidates

BEIJING

CHINESE leaders endorsed a sweeping overhaul of Hong Kong's electoral system on Tuesday, slashing the number of directly-elected politicians and creating powers to vet anyone standing for public office.

The new measures, which bypassed Hong Kong's legislature and were imposed directly by Beijing, are the latest move aimed at quashing the city's democracy movement after huge protests. President Xi Jinping signed the new law after it was unanimously approved by China's top decision-making body.

One of the most dramatic changes is the introduction of a committee that will vet anyone hoping to enter Hong Kong politics for their patriotism. The body will include background checks by the territory's new national security apparatus and its decisions cannot be legally challenged.

"The National Security Committee and the National Security Police will provide reports on every single candidate to assist the vetting by the qualification review committee," Tam Yiu-chung, Hong Kong's sole delegate on China's rubber-stamp Parliament, told AFP.

Under the new measures, the city's legislature will be expanded from 70 to 90 seats. But only 20 of those seats will now be directly elected, down from 35. That brings direct representation down from half to less than a quarter of seats. The majority of 40 seats will be chosen by a reliably pro-Beijing committee. The remaining 30 will be picked by "functional constituencies" — bodies representing certain industries and special interest groups that have also been historically loyal to Beijing.

The measures were welcomed by Hong Kong's pro-Beijing government, which will no longer have to face a noisy and disruptive pro-democracy opposition in the legislature. The next legislative elections under the new system would be held in December. Opposition figures and some analysts described the new measures as a clear move to ensure any remaining opposition to Beijing's rule is stamped out. "This whole new system is really degrading and very oppressive," Emily Lau, a former pro-democracy lawmaker told AFP.

Fears of civil war breakout loom as militia vows to take the fight to junta

YANGON

WITH world powers ramping up their condemnation of the military crackdown on pro-democracy protesters, ethnic armed rebel groups on Tuesday threatened the junta with retaliation if the bloodshed does not stop. Some analysts warn that the crisis could spiral into even more conflict if the insurgents follow through on their threats.

The complex ethnic divide in the country played a perfect foil for various groups taking up arms against the government. However, situation calmed down a tad after Myanmar's tentative democratic transition in 2015, with 10 armed groups signing a nationwide ceasefire agreement with the civilian government. But fighting continued in some pockets, particularly Kachin and Shan states in the north, and Rakhine in the west, often with civilians trapped in the middle. Three of these groups — the Ta'ang National Liberation Army, the Myanmar Nationalities Democratic Alliance Army and the Arakan Army — issued a joint statement on Tuesday, threatening retaliation over the ongoing military repression of protests.

The Arakan Army is an effective fighting force that has inflicted "heavy casualties" on the Myanmar military in Rakhine state. Debbie Stothard of the International Federation for Human Rights (FIDH) warned that if rebel groups such as the Arakan Army followed through on their new threats, the situation could degenerate towards civil war.

Meanwhile, protesters in Yangon emptied rubbish bags in the streets as part of the latest action, while in the town of Muse in Shan state a 35-year-old protester was shot dead. There was another fatality at Myitkyina, Kachin state, rescue workers confirmed.

State media also reported a protester's death in South Dagon, Yangon, while authorities are investigating a hand made bomb explosion at a police station in the city of Bago which injured a few officers.

Air strikes launched by the junta also killed six people in eastern Karen state, according to the Fifth Brigade of the Karen National Union (KNU), one of the country's largest armed groups.

BLAZE VICTIM

Chip major says supply normalcy 4 months away

TOKYO

JAPANESE chip manufacturer Renesas on Tuesday said it could take three to four months to restore full capacity after a factory fire that threatens to worsen a global chip shortage. The fire on March 19 came with car makers already battling semiconductor supply problems, in part because of increased demand for chips from manufacturers of laptops, tablets and gaming devices.

Renesas Electronics controls about 35% of the market for automotive semiconductors and saw 600 square metres (6,500 square feet) of factory floor damaged in the blaze. The company originally assessed the fire as having damaged 11 machines but in fact 23 need to be replaced, CEO Hidetoshi Shibata told reporters.

He said 11 replacement machines would be delivered by the end of April, with seven more expected in May or June, but it was unknown when the other five would arrive.

Kid play leads to speculation on US nuke launch code

WASHINGTON

Some jokingly said the cryptic tweet, ;l;;gmlxzssaw, was a US nuclear launch code. Others, that the Pentagon had been hacked. And some even thought it was a signal to political conspiracists. Now the US Strategic Command, which runs the country's powerful nuclear weapons force, says the enigmatic posting on its Twitter account in fact came from the hands of a precocious kid. Headquartered in Offutt Air Force Base, Nebraska, Stratcom manages the US military's strategic deterrence.

Stratcom told media that the tweet was no secret message, and was instead was the result of a Stratcom social media editor working from home. "The Command's Twitter manager momentarily left the Command's account unattended. His very young child took advantage of the situation," Stratcom official Kendall Cooper said.

Kids at forefront of US migrant crisis

PANAMA CITY

THE number of US-bound migrant children crossing the dangerous Darien jungle in Panama on foot has increased more than 15-fold in recent years and is likely to rise further, the UN children's agency warned on Monday. Children accounted for just 2% of these migrants in 2017 but that had risen to more than 25% in 2020, UNICEF said in a statement.

The Darien Gap jungle, the only land corridor between Colombia and Panama, is "one of the most dangerous routes in the world due to the mountainous terrain, wildlife and insects, as well as the presence of criminal organizations," the agency added.

Crossing the vast, roadless Darien Gap rainforest is the only option for US-bound migrants traveling overland from South America. Most of those making the crossing are Haitians and Cubans, but there are also some Asians and Africans.

"I've seen women step out of the jungle carrying their babies in their arms after walking for more than seven days without water, food or any kind of protection," said Jean Gough, UNICEF regional director for Latin America and the Caribbean. Over the past four years, more than 46,500 migrants, including 6,240 children and adolescents, have crossed the inhospitable jungle.

The number of minors increased from 109 to 1,653 between 2017 and 2020, UNICEF said. Experts believe more and more migrants are choosing to travel with their families, including young children and pregnant women, to avoid being deported to the different countries they pass through.

"These families are pushing their own limits and putting their lives in danger, often without realizing how much of a risk they are taking. Those who manage to eventually cross this perilous border are physically and mentally devastated," Gough added.

Slovak PM quits after public apology over Covid

BRATISLAVA: Slovak PM Igor Matovic resigned on Tuesday following heavy criticism of his decision to buy Russian vaccines and of his overall handling of the coronavirus pandemic. President Zuzana Caputova nominated Finance Minister Eduard Heger to replace him at a ceremony involving all three politicians in the capital Bratislava, broadcast live on Slovak television. "It was an honour and thank you," Matovic wrote on Facebook ahead of the ceremony.

Volvo extends paid paternal leave benefit to employees worldwide

STOCKHOLM

SWEDISH automaker Volvo Cars said on Tuesday that it would give its 40,000 employees worldwide the right to six-month paid parental leave in a bid to increase gender equality and attract talent.

As of April 1, employees who have worked for the carmaker for at least one year will be entitled to the benefit at 80 percent of their salary. Employees can take those weeks whenever they like during the first three years after the birth of their child. The policy is based on Sweden's national parental leave policy, one of the most generous in the world with 480 days to be shared by both parents at 80 percent of their salary up to a ceiling of around $4,500 (3,800 euros) a month.

"Most important is that we offer the same to both parents, and we want to encourage more men to take the opportunity to take their parental leave," Hanna Fager, head of Volvo Cars' human resources, told AFP.

Other Swedish companies have previously introduced paid parental leaves for their worldwide employees, including music streaming company Spotify which in 2015 introduced a six-month parental leave with full pay. Ikea also announced similar programmes in 2017 in India and the US. Volvo Cars, which said around 75% of its employees were men, has been testing the policy in a pilot scheme since 2019 for sales staff in Europe, the Middle East and Africa, in which 46% of applicants were fathers. Fager said paid parental leave was rare in the automotive industry.

Further as per 1st Sale Notice (issued on Symbolic Possession) dated 29.09.2020 it was communicated to you that in case the entire amount as demanded in the notice under section 13(2) is not discharged by you, the secured creditor would sell the mortgaged property, by a public e-auction to be conducted on 06.11.2020 and also published the e- Auction Sale Notice in New Indian Express (English) & Kannada Prabha (Kannada) Newspapers on 29th September, 2020.

The secured creditor however did not receive any bids with respect to the said auction conducted on 06.11.2020.

Further as per 2nd Sale Notice (issued on Symbolic Possession) dated 12.01.2021 it was communicated to you that in case the entire amount as demanded in the notice under section 13(2) is not discharged by you, the secured creditor would sell the mortgaged property, by a public e-auction to be conducted on 30.01.2021 and also published the e- Auction Sale Notice in New Indian Express (English) & Kannada Prabha (Kannada) Newspapers on 12th January,2021.

The secured creditor however did not receive any bids with respect to the said auction conducted on 12.01.2021.

Now, the company has received an offers from the prospective buyers who are willing to purchase the mortgaged property for a total sale consideration of Rs. 40,00,000/- (Rupees Forty Lakhs Only/-), by way of a Private Treaty. The secured creditor after considering the said offer received and also considering the peculiar circumstances of your case on account of huge amount of statutory charges and other charges demands is willing to sell the mortgaged property by way of private treaty in order to recover its dues.

In the light of the above said circumstances the present notice under Rule 9 (1) and Rule 8(8) of the Security Interest (Enforcement) Rules, 2002 is being issued to you, whereby the secured creditor is once again calling upon you to remit a sum of Rs.80,75,385/- (Rupees Eight Lakhs Seventy Five Thousand Three Hundred and Eighty Five Only/-) as on 26th March, 2021, along with applicable future interest and charges within 15 days of the date of the present notice, failing which the Authorised Officer will be at liberty to proceed for sale of the mortgaged property schedule by way of a private treaty as mentioned above.

Inflation concerns engulf Asian economies

Experts believe price rise is inevitable over next few months due to high oil rates, better demand, and a low base

SUNITHA NATTI

CONCERNS of rising inflation are engulfing the Asian region—though much of the price rise is driven by rising oil prices, while demand-side pressures may remain subdued at least until the second half of 2021. Brent crude has shot up 26 per cent so far this year and it's only March.

Even though headline inflation across Asian countries was somewhat mixed in February, analysts believe price rise is inevitable in the coming months, partly also due to the low base effect.

While Hong Kong, Singapore and Malaysia saw a modest inflation rise, others such as the Philippines and India recorded inflation above their respective central bank targets. China was an outlier with inflation falling in February.

Hong Kong's headline CPI rose by 0.33 per cent y-o-y in February, following a 1.9 per cent growth in January, Malaysia's CPI hit 0.1 per cent y-o-y—the first postive reading in almost a year. Likewise, Singapore's headline inflation surprised on the upside and rose 0.7 per cent y-o-y, led by food and transport, the latter on the back of higher auto prices, according to Moody's.

Singapore's higher reading was helped by the 21 per cent increase in petrol duty that was announced in the 2021 financial year budget. Accordingly, the transport component of the CPI was up 3.1 per cent y-o-y in February.

Despite the modest price rise, central banks have held fire. Both the Bank of Thailand and the Philippines' central bank kept their policy rates unchanged at 0.5 per cent and 2 per cent respectively in March.

However, the Bank of Thailand revised its 2021 GDP forecast downwards to 3 per cent, after December's projection of 3.2 per cent, largely due to the lack of international visitors. It also reiterated that its accommodative monetary setting will work alongside fiscal measures to ensure growth recovey.

Elevated inflation, a large output gap, a recent resurgence of Covid-19 infections and limited vaccine availability are reasons for concerns in the Philippines. Its headline CPI rose by 4.7 per cent in February—its highest in more than two years following January's 4.2 per cent and remains above the central bank's 2-4 per cent target. Meanwhile, China's consumer price index fell by 0.2 per cent y-o-y in February after a 0.3 per cent decline in the previous month—third y-o-y price drop since the pandemic hit.

CHINA

OIL IMPORTS FROM IRAN AT NEW HIGH

China will receive another large influx of cheap Iranian oil in March, most passed off officially as crude from other sources, curbing its appetite for crude from other suppliers, per reports. Close to 1 million barrels per day of Iranian crude could arrive at China this month, nearly half the volume Saudi Arabia supplied to China in the first two months this year. Per estimates, March arrivals are at 3.75 million tonnes, topping the previous record seen in January of 3.37 million tonnes. About 650,000 bpd of Iranian oil were discharged in the first 19 days of March, mainly via Shangdon, the hub for China's independent refiners. This compared with 490,000 bpd discharged in February and a record 797,000 bpd in Janaury.

INDONESIA

TALKS ON WITH INVESTORS FOR INDUSTRIAL ESTATE

Indonesia is in talks with China's Tsingshan Holding Group and Australia's Fortescue Metals Group to build a new industrial estate for metal smelting near a planned hydropower plant on Borneo island, according to officials. The new estate will be located near the 11,000 MW Kayan hydropower project in North Kalimantan province and the proposed integrated industry will start melting by 2023 for iron ore, nickel ore and copper. This will go in parallel with Indonesia's project to produce lithium batteries using its nickel reserves. In September, a Fortescue subsidiary signed an agreemeent with Indonesia to conduct feasibility studies for the utilisation of hydropower and geothermal resources for industry, domestic supply and exports.

JAPAN

BANK OF JAPAN TO HIGHLIGHT CLIMATE RISKS

The Bank of Japan (BoJ) will include climate change risks as one among the key themes in its bank examinations for the year beginning in April, joining other major central banks in looking more closely at the effects of global warming on financial institutions. Japan's central bank said in guidelines for the examinations that it will check financial institutions' preparations for addressing risks associated with climate change. The focus of the examinations will be to exchange views with major banks that are already analysing how their business could be affected by climate risks. The BoJ conducts hearings and on-site monitoring in voluntary examinations on financial institutions, but does not have regulatory authority.

Stock markets end losing streak, Sensex crosses 50,000 after 2.3% rise

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

SHRUGGING off rising Covid-19 cases and fears over increasing bond yields, domestic equity benchmark indices ended last week's bearish run on Tuesday and recorded a sharp rise. Led by a surge in IT, metal, and banking stocks, the 30-share BSE Sensex soared 1,128 points, or 2.30 per cent, to close at 50,137; while the broader NSE Nifty moved 338 points or 2.33 per cent higher to settle at 14,845.

"Beating worries of increasing Covid cases and rising bond yields, the domestic market sparked a rally today as investors turned their focus to economic recovery supported by vaccination drives. Positive openings seen in Asian and European markets also helped in boosting optimism in the Indian market," Vinod Nair, head of research at Geojit Financial Services, said.

Rusmik Oza, Executive Vice President, Head of Fundamental Research at Kotak Securities, for their part, said: "The start of new settlement for FY22 and forthcoming Q4 earnings seasons could be the reasons for fresh investor interest in stocks. US markets, especially the Dow Jones and S&P 500 are showing firm uptrend due to the ongoing stimulus and faster vaccination drive which could also be one of the reasons for our markets to inch upwards."

HDFC Bank was the lead gainer on the BSE, rising 4.11 per cent. HCL Tech climbed 3.91 per cent, Infosys 3.69 per cent, Hindustan Unilever Ltd 3.59 per cent, and NTPC 3.4 per cent. Banking and metal stocks soared after JSW Steel announced the completion of its resolution process for Bhushan Steel and Power, allowing lenders to recover some of the bad loans. JSW Steel jumped 5 per cent and Tata Steel zoomed 4.3 per cent during the day.

On the IPO front, Rakesh Jhunjhunwala-backed Nazara Technologies made an impressive debut. Shares of the mobile gaming company started off the day at ₹1,971 on the BSE, a premium 79.02 per cent compared to the issue price of ₹1,101 per share.

Elsewhere in Asia, bourses in Shanghai, Hong Kong, Tokyo and Seoul also ended on a positive note. Stock exchanges in Europe were trading with significant gains in mid-session deals. The rupee slumped against the US dollar by 87 paise to close at nearly a one-month low of 73.38. "The INR has remained quite steady even though the dollar index rose. Also when the US 10-year bond yields have spiked sharply India's 10-year bond yield has remained quite stable. These two factors could act in India's favour," Oza added.

Banks ask Centre to bear interest refund cost for large loans too

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FOLLOWING the Supreme Court order allowing a compound interest waiver for all loans during the moratorium period last year, the Indian Banks' Association (IBA) has shot off a letter to the Finance Ministry requesting the government to shoulder the burden of refunding interest-on-interest for loans larger than ₹2 crore. The burden is expected to come up to ₹7,500 crore.

The association has asked banks to refund any compound interest or penal interest collected by them. In a letter dated March 26, IBA also told banks that it will ask the government to compensate lenders for the refund payable.

Banks, accounting for 70 per cent of the loan market, have operating profits of over ₹3 lakh crore. "So, that way ₹7,000 crore on ₹3 lakh crore will be like two per cent of their operating profits," Anil Gupta, Vice President-Financial Sector Ratings, ICRA Ltd said.

Meanwhile, banks are seeking to enhance the scope of the October 2020 scheme granting ex-gratia payment for borrowers to loans above ₹2 crore too. But speculation is rife that the government might not compensate lenders this time.

If the government does not do so, banks may file a review petition in the SC. "As per our discussion with bankers, they suggest that IBA (Indian Banks' Association)/RBI/Govt should file a writ petition challenging the court directive to waive interest on interest on loans of over ₹2 crore (except for consolidated exposure)," analysts at Emkay Global Financial Services said.

Bankers believe that the interest waiver relief should be extended only to small retail and enterprise borrowers, who are most affected by the pandemic, and not to large borrowers, who have better repayment capacity and are also eligible for other relief measures such as restructuring. Meanwhile, bankers are yet to get ex-gratia from first round. "We have filed our claims through the nodal agency SBI but all the claims are lying with the government. We also haven't heard of anybody yet being reimbursed. They are processing; it's going to take some time," said a banker requesting anonymity.

TODAY'S STOCK PICK

SAIL

Current Price ₹79.15

Target Price ₹104

We see Steel Authority of India (SAIL) as the best play on higher steel prices as it: 1) is backward integrated with captive iron ore, 2) has a higher operating leverage due to high conversion cost, and 3) has a higher financial leverage. With limited capex, higher pricing should drive significant deleveraging and boost equity value.

Glitches irk HDFC Bank customers

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AN intermittent technical glitch on Tuesday resulted in several HDFC Bank account holders facing issues while accessing its digital banking channels. With a large number of users complaining that they were unable to access net banking or the mobile app, the private lender took to Twitter to acknowledge the issue and said that steps were being taken to resolve the glitches in its digital banking platform and restore services on priority.

"Some customers are facing intermittent issues accessing our NetBanking/MobileBanking App. We are looking into it on priority for resolution. We apologize for the inconvenience and request you to try again after some time," the bank tweeted. This is, however, not the first time that customers of the country's largest private bank have faced service outages.

In fact, the bank has been penalised by the Reserve bank of India (RBI) for two major outages in the past. In December 2020, the banking regulator temporarily barred HDFC Bank from launching new digital banking initiatives and issuing new credit cards after taking a serious note of service outages at the bank over the last two years.

Later, the bank said it has submitted a detailed plan to fix the repeated technical glitches that led to multiple outages on its digital banking channels.

It may be noted that HDFC Bank is the largest issuer of credit cards and had 1.5 crore customers as of September 2020, while on the debit cards front, it had 3.38 crore customers. The banking regulator, in February, appointed an external firm for carrying out a special audit of HDFC Bank's IT infrastructure.

Disappointed over SC verdict: Cyrus Mistry

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

WITH Supreme Court effectively putting a halt to the long drawn legal tussle between former Tata Sons chairman Cyrus Mistry and the promoter group by ruling in favour of the latter on Friday, Mistry said in a statement on Tuesday that he was disappointed with the SC verdict.

"Every member of society looks to institutions such as courts to validate and endorse the appropriateness of his or her actions and beliefs. As a minority shareholder of Tata Sons, I am personally disappointed by the outcome of the judgement with respect to our case," Mistry said. The SC had set aside the earlier National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) order restoring Mistry as executive chairman of the conglomerate.

Mistry added in his statement that although he would "no longer be able to influence the direction of governance of the Tata group directly, I hope that the issues I have raised will cause deeper reflection and influence individuals concerned to catalyse change. I sleep with a clear conscience."

Mistry had raised several issues related to corporate governance and transparency, including alleged ₹22 crore fraudulent transactions involving non-existent entities in India and Singapore in Tatas' joint venture with Air Asia. He had also accused Ratan Tata of feeling insecure about his legacy. "Over the last four years, I have had the opportunity to reflect on my actions and on whether I could have handled the generational change in leadership better. In hindsight, while I may have had many imperfections, I have no doubt or erosion of conviction about the direction I chose," Mistry said in his statement.

TPL chalks out ₹435 cr investment plan

Chennai: Tamil Nadu Petroproducts Ltd, a member of the petrochemicals division of the AM International Group, has lined up investments worth `435 crore towards ramping up production at its facilities, the company said on Tuesday. The company is three decades old and has facilities for production of heavy chemicals and propylene oxide. The expansion includes augmentation of LAB division, revamp of caustic soda facilities and setting up of a propylene recovery unit.

HMSI rolls out premium CB650R in India

New Delhi: Expanding its premium motorcycle range in the country, Honda Motorcycle & Scooter India on Tuesday launched its CB650R model in the domestic market while rolling out an updated edition of its 649-cc motorcycle CBR650R. The two new models (CBR650R and CB650R), brought in as completely knocked down (CKDs) units, are priced at `8.88 lakh and `8.67 lakh (ex-showroom Gurugram), respectively, it said.

MobiKwik denies claims that KYC data of 3.5 mn users leaked on web

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

MOBILE payments company MobiKwik on Tuesday denied accusations that data of its 3.5 million users have been leaked on the dark web. The denial comes after alerts and complaints surfaced on Twitter from security experts and users that their sensitive information—including credit card details, Aadhar card numbers, phone numbers and KYC details—were accessible on the dark web. MobiKwik CEO Bipin Preet Singh responded on Tuesday that the company will get a third party to conduct a forensic data security audit.

"For our users, we reiterate that all your MobiKwik accounts and balances are completely safe. All financially sensitive data is stored in encrypted form in our databases. No misuse of your wallet balance, credit card or debit card is possible without the one-time-password (OTP) that only comes to your mobile number. We strongly recommend that you do not try to open any darkweb/anonymous links as they could jeopardize your own cyber safety," Singh said in a statement.

All financially sensitive data is stored in encrypted form in our databases. No misuse of your wallet balance, credit card or debit card is possible without the one-time-password (OTP)

Bipin Preet Singh, CEO, MobiKwik

MobiKwik, which has been preparing to list on stock exchanges this year, also said that while the company is investigating this, it was entirely possible that any user could have uploaded her/his information on multiple platforms. "Hence, it is incorrect to suggest that the data available on the darkweb has been accessed from MobiKwik or any identified source," it added.

A month ago, an internet researcher Rajshekhar Rajhari had put out a tweet alleging that 11 crore Indian card holders' data had been stolen by hackers who had access to MobiKwik's server since December 2020. He had added that these hackers were trying to sell the data on the dark web for over 1.5 bitcoins amounting to more than ₹50 lakh.

Besides Rajaharia, a French cyber security specialist, Robert Baptiste, who tweets with the handle Elliot Anderson, termed the MobiKwik's data breach as the biggest KYC leak in history. Many MobiKwik users also claimed on social media that they have seen their credit card details, phone numbers/email addresses available online via a viral link.

Kiran Jonnalagadda, co-founder of HasGeek, for instance, tweeted that the MobiKwik leak was real: "Here is what the dump had for me. One of those credit cards was valid until a couple weeks ago, and I don't recall authorising MobiKwik to save it".

Xiaomi to make electric vehicles, lays out plan for $10 bn investment

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

CHINESE tech giant Xiaomi has now officially confirmed its entry into the electric vehicle (EV) space. The smartphone giant will set up a wholly-owned subsidiary to operate a smart EV business, it said.

Xiaomi will initially invest 10 billion yuan ($1.52 billion) into the venture, with the total investment expected tp reach $10 billion over the next ten years. Xiaomi founder and Chief executive Officer Lei Jun will serve as the CEO of the new EV venture.

"The board of directors of the company has resolved to commence the electric vehicle business...Xiaomi hopes to offer quality smart electric vehicles to let everyone in the world enjoy smart living anytime, anywhere," said the company in a statement.

It is unclear from the available information whether Xiaomi will start its EV operations by making a four-wheeler or a two-wheeler. It is also not known yet whether Xiaomi will go solo, form a partnership or take the contract manufacturing route.

Last week, news agency Reuters had reported that Xiaomi was in talks to partner with Chinese automaker Great Wall Motor Company for help in manufacturing EVs.

It is expected that Xiaomi's EV will be initially sold in China initially. However, it won't be surprising if India happens to be one of its first global markets for EVs.

Xiaomi dominates India's smartphone and smartTV market, and has one of the biggest retail network for any electronic company.

As the auto industry is moving from traditional internal combustion engine-powered vehicles to battery powered vehicles, the EV market continues see the entry of tech behemoths. In January, Chinese search giant Baidu Inc had announced it would develop an EV unit, while Huawei and Apple have also long been planning an entry into the electric vehicle market.

"We have a deep pocket for this project," news agency Bloomberg reported Xiaomi chief executive officer Lei Jun saying at an event in Beijing. "I'm fully aware of the risks of the car-making industry. I'm also aware the project will take at least three to five years with tens of billions of investment."

During the press event, to make the announcement on its entry into the EV segment, Xiaomi also announced the release of a self-developed computing chip. Called the Surge C1, the chip is an image signal processor (ISP) that is used to enhance a phone's ability to process high-resolution images and video. Xiaomi pointed out that it has taken over two years and expended a $140 million investment in its efforts to develop the chip, which is expected to be placed in the newly announced Mi Mix folding phone. While the competitor Huawei has had success in the semiconductor space, Xiaomi lags.

Harmanpreet tests positive for Covid

The Indian women's T20 team captain Harmanpreet Kaur has tested positive for Covid-19 and is experiencing mild symptoms. Kaur, who did not play in the T20 series against South Africa in Lucknow after injuring herself in the fifth ODI on March 17, got herself tested on Monday after developing mild fever.

Boxers free of Covid, to return from Turkey

Coach Dharmendra to continue quarantine after testing positive yet again, rest of contingent to be back in India on Wednesday

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

ALONE and stuck in alien surroundings. That's becoming a recurring theme for Indian boxers. After Ashish Kumar, who spent time in isolation in Spain recently, eight members of the national team including four pugilists had been forced to stay behind in Istanbul after they had tested positive for coronavirus.

Now, after spending a week in isolation under strict protocol, seven have tested negative and are set for homecoming. However, coach Dharmendra Singh Yadav faces more quarantine time after his latest test results returned positive on Tuesday.

The pugilists had suffered the ill fate after taking part in an international competition — International Istanbul Bosphorus Boxing Tournament, a meet that was held from March 15 to 21. A 14-member contingent, including 8 boxers and six support staff, had travelled for the exposure tour. Gaurav Solanki (57 kg), winner of the bronze medal in the competition, was one of the boxers who had tested positive. The rest of the contingent had returned on March 22.

"We had tested positive for the virus, but today everyone cleared barring me. Those who have cleared are expected to leave either today (Tuesday) or tomorrow (Wednesday). I have to continue to remain in quarantine," Dharmendra told this daily. It is learnt that the seven members will reach India by Wednesday evening.

The eight had initially tested positive on March 20. And they had been re-tested on Monday after quarantine. Their latest test results were revealed on Tuesday. Needless to say, Dharmendra is still trying to stomach the reality.

"I am alright. But this uncertainty is mentally taxing. I am not sure if I got tested properly. More than me, it is my family who are concerned. The fact that I am so far away from home is a big worry for them."

The Olympian is hopeful that this period of uncertainty, with the help of the Boxing Federation of India (BFI) and authorities there, will end soon.

"It is what it is. The BFI has been constantly in touch with all of us and have been keeping us informed. That has helped us cope."

In these unprecedented times, the boxers are still getting used to the new normal. Apart from forced seclusion, they have had to cope with language barrier, foreign food. The Arjuna awardee revealed that most of the boxers had been practising yoga in order to keep their minds sharp.

"Food is fine but you still crave for Indian food sometimes. And there's bound to be a language barrier, and it will get harder when I am alone."

No word on compensation packet yet, match officials await pay

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Chennai

EVEN as the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) is preparing to roll out a second IPL in six months, more than 400 umpires, match officials, scorers and video analysts are still awaiting payments for the domestic tournaments they featured this season. Apart from them, even few of the domestic players, who feature only in Ranji Trophy for their respective units, are waiting to hear from the Indian cricket board about the compensation package they were promised.

Citing the pandemic, the BCCI had rolled out a curtailed domestic calendar which began only in January with the Syed Mushtaq Ali T20s. It was followed by the Vijay Hazare Trophy in February and currently women's one-dayers is underway following which the BCCI is contemplating whether to schedule age-group tournaments or not. The BCCI had instructed umpires, officials et. al. to submit the bills not more than three days after the completion of the tournament. "We usually get the payments within 15 days of completing the assignment. But two months have passed since the Mushtaq Ali tournament finished and we haven't received any money yet," an umpire who officiated in both the men's events said.

It is understood that the delay has been caused because the BCCI was without a general manager (cricket operations) after Syed Saba Karim quit the position last year. Even the other general manager, KVP Rao, who was looking after the umpires, match officials among others, was asked to step down from his post last December.

While some of these officials do have a regular job to fall back on, the majority of them who are professionals are completely dependent on the BCCI's pay package. In fact, some of them have not received payments since last March.

The BCCI, during its annual general meeting in December, had mentioned that a working group will be formed to decide on the compensation package for the players, match officials and others. But more than three months since the AGM, there hasn't been any development in this front.

RCB begin conditioning camp

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

The Royal Challengers Bangalore began their nine-day conditioning camp at the Centre for Sports Science (CSS) facilities in Sri Ramachandra Institute of Higher Education and Research, Chennai, from Tuesday ahead of the 14th edition of the IPL. It kicked off under the guidance of director of cricket, Mike Hesson and head coach Simon Katich.

RCB's batting consultant Sanjay Bangar (l), Yuzvendra Chahal and Mohammed Siraj in Chennai on Tuesday

Around 11 players including Yuzvendra Chahal, Navdeep Saini, Mohammed Siraj, Harshal Patel and others are part of the camp currently while others are only expected to join the camp after they finish their seven days of mandatory isolation. Bangalore skipper Virat Kohli is expected to join the contingent on April 1.

The camp is focused on fitness drills for conditioning and strengthening regime under the guidance of Shankar Basu. However, such a camp is not new to some of the players, who were involved in a mini-camp earlier in the month in Bengaluru too, which was mainly a thorough fitness assessment. Kohli's unit will kickstart their proceedings against Mumbai Indians on April 9.

Pant to lead Delhi

Delhi Capitals have named Rishabh Pant as their captain for the upcoming season, replacing the injured Shreyas Iyer who has been ruled out of the tournament. Pant has been Shreyas' deputy at the franchise over the last couple of seasons and has been in good run of form with the bat for the national side. Even though DC have India's Test vice-captain Ajinkya Rahane, Ravichandran Ashwin, Steve Smith and Shikhar Dhawan in their ranks, they have opted for Pant with an eye on the future as he is expected to be retained by the franchise at next year's full auction.

Aguero to leave City at end of season

LONDON: Sergio Aguero is starting his long goodbye from Manchester City with his position secure as one of the Premier League's all-time greats. The 32-year-old striker, who joined the cub in 2011, will leave when his contract expires at the end of the season.

Fouaad eyes Olympic spot in April event

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

WITH his horse out of a three-week quarantine last Sunday, Fouaad Mirza is targeting an event in the third week of April to come back to competitions. "Yeah, all's good with Dajara 4," the rider tells this newspaper.

"She came out of quarantine last Sunday and full-fledged training has resumed, so onwards and upwards. We have Stregzom, where he will target an Minimum eligibility Requirement (MER) to rubberstamp his Olympics spot, coming up in the middle of April. We are currently preparing for that. I am happy to say we are running on schedule and I can't wait to get started to be honest."

Dajara 4 was forced into quarantine after an outbreak of Equine Herpes Virus (EHV-1) among horses in February. The outbreak was deemed so serious that all events in mainland Europe were cancelled pretty much till the beginning of April. After taking Dajara-4 back to his base in Germany from Italy where he had travelled for a competition in the beginning of March, the double Asian Games medallist had to keep monitoring her regularly.

"I had to constantly keep monitoring her temperature two times a day for three weeks," he says. "She also had to return two negative tests (for EHV1 and EHV4) one week apart before being allowed to come back to a normal stable."

Crucially, even though Dajara 4 was staying separately from the other horses, training didn't get affected.

"As far as training was concerned, it was slightly difficult to do it out of that facility. But, as they say, where there is a will, there is way. We did have sufficient training during that time. I'm currently on schedule. And because she tested negative, there was no need to disinfect my equipment or be worried about whether my equipment could be contaminated."

That is important because the 29-year-old will go to that in Poland hoping to complete a dream of qualifying for the Olympics.

The Pfizer and Moderna Covid vaccines were shown to be 90% effective against coronavirus infection -- regardless of symptom status -- in a real world study involving almost 4,000 American health workers that was conducted by the CDC. Partial vaccination with one dose of either vaccine resulted in 80% protection against infection two weeks after the first shot.

WHO chief calls for probe into lab leak theory

Calls out China over data access; meanwhile, world leaders push for new pandemic treaty

HEALTH

GENEVA: World Health Organization chief Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus on Tuesday urged a deeper investigation into whether the coronavirus outbreak originated with a leak from a lab, as world leaders pushed for a treaty to prepare for future pandemics.

A report by WHO and Chinese experts, obtained by AFP ahead of its Tuesday publication, had judged the lab-leak hypothesis highly unlikely, saying the virus behind Covid-19 had probably jumped from bats to humans via an intermediary animal.

But a potential leak "requires further investigation, potentially with additional missions involving specialist experts" Tedros said. He added that the international team had difficulty accessing raw data during the mission to China, demanding "more timely and comprehensive data sharing" in future.

The report was released more than a year into the pandemic that has killed nearly 2.8 million people worldwide, with several countries battling new waves of infections.

World leaders called for a new international treaty to better fight future pandemics and for countries to be ready if – or when – another hits. "Together, we must be better prepared to predict, prevent, detect, assess and effectively respond to pandemics in a highly coordinated fashion," they urged.

The call came in a joint article published in international newspapers on Tuesday, penned by leaders from more than 20 countries -- including Germany, France, South Korea and South Africa -- along with the European Union and the WHO.

Tedros had earlier urged the world to not waste any time in preparing for the next.

"The time to act is now. The world cannot afford to wait until the pandemic is over to start planning for the next one," the world health body chief told a virtual press conference.

The expert report on the origins of Covid-19 has had a troubled birth, with publication delays adding to the hold-ups and diplomatic wrangling that plagued the WHO's attempts to get experts into Wuhan -- the city at the centre of the initial outbreak.

They finally arrived on January 14, more than a year after the first cases surfaced.

Experts believe the SARS-CoV-2 virus that causes the Covid-19 disease originally came from bats.

The report authors judged that the most likely scenario was that it had made a direct leap to humans, while not ruling out other theories.

Beijing's theory that the virus did not originate in China at all but was imported in frozen food was judged "possible" but very unlikely.

OUTSOURCING TREE LOSS

Even as North America and Europe expand forest cover within their own borders, efforts to slow forest loss in the global south through offset schemes and direct payments have been overwhelmed by these appetites

4 TREES

Each person in G7 nations accounts for, on average, the loss of four trees somewhere else in the world per year, the study showed

This is the first country-by-country quantification of how rich-nation imports drive deforestation. The datasets used in the research included more than three billion trees

Most forests are in poorer countries that are overwhelmed with economic incentives to cut them down. We show that richer countries are encouraging deforestation through demand for commodities

Rich nations encourage poor ones to cut forests

Rising demand in wealthy countries for dozens of commodities ranging from coffee to soybeans has stepped up the pace of deforestation in the tropics, researchers said in Nature Ecology & Evolution this week

DEFORESTATION FOOTPRINT

In five of those G7 nations — Japan, Germany, France, Britain and Italy — 91 to 99% of their "deforestation footprint" was in foreign countries, half of that in the tropics. That footprint has grown most rapidly in China and India, but their per capita tree loss is still far below that of rich countries

PALM OIL

Palm oil, used in food products and biofuels, is the main instigator of forest loss in Indonesia, while large swathes of forest in Brazil are destroyed to make way for beef, soybean and sugarcane production

COCOA AND COFFEE

Combining data on forest loss and global supply chains, Nguyen Tien Hoang and his colleague Keiichiro Kanemoto showed which nations were buying what commodities from where. Cocoa consumption in Germany, for example, "poses a very high risk to forests" in Ivory Coast and Ghana

Deforestation in coastal Tanzania, meanwhile, is directly linked to Japanese demand for agricultural products

In Vietnam, forest loss in the Central Highlands is mainly driven by coffee drinkers in the US, Germany and Italy, while in northern Vietnam the culprit is exports to China, South Korea and Japan

2019

A football pitch of primary, old-growth trees was destroyed in the tropics every six seconds in 2019 – about 38,000 square km in all, according to satellite data

German cities, Canada halt Astra vaccine

MEDICINE

BERLIN: Several health authorities in Germany announced Tuesday that they are again suspending the use of AstraZeneca's coronavirus vaccine for residents under age 60 amid fresh reports of unusual blood clots in people who recently received the shots.

Officials in Berlin, Munich and the eastern state of Brandenburg took the decision to temporarily halt vaccinations ahead of a meeting later Tuesday of representatives from Germany's 16 states.

The country's medical regulator said it had received a total of 31 reports of rare blood clots in recent recipients of the AstraZeneca vaccine by March 29. Nine of the people died and all but two of the cases involved women aged 20 to 63, the Paul Ehrlich Institute said.

Reports of an unusual form of blood clot in the head, known as sinus vein thrombosis, prompted several European countries to temporarily halt the use of the AstraZeneca vaccine earlier this month. After a review by medical experts, the European Medicines Agency concluded the benefits of the vaccine outweighed the risks.

At the same time, the agency recommended that warnings about possible rare side effects should be provided to patients and doctors. Most EU countries resumed use of the vaccine.

On Monday, Canada suspended use of the AstraZeneca vaccine in people under 55. Shelley Deeks, vice chair of Canada's National Advisory Committee on Immunization, said the updated recommendations come amid new data from Europe that suggests the risk of blood clots is now potentially as high as one in 100,000, much higher than the one in one million risk believed before.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Another failure for Mars rocket

TECHNOLOGY

SpaceX chalked up another failed landing Tuesday for its futuristic, bullet-shaped Starship, as the prototype Mars rocket broke apart right before touchdown. A camera on the rocket froze not quite six minutes into the test flight, and dense fog in South Texas obscured views of the ruptured rocket. Other video showed debris raining down and explosions could be heard. SpaceX chief executive Elon Musk tweeted that "at least the crater is in the right place!" He's named the launch and landing area at the southeastern tip of Texas, near the Mexico border, Starbase. This was the fourth full-scale stainless steel model to launch since December to an altitude of more than 6 miles (10 kilometers). The previous three exploded at touchdown or shortly afterward.

Repurposed drug for HIV

MEDICINE

A team of researchers has discovered an important vulnerability of HIV, and has shown in preclinical experiments that a widely used diabetes drug, metformin, seems able to exploit this vulnerability. The findings in Nature Immunology suggests that HIV, when it infects immune cells called CD4 T cells, helps fuel its own replication by boosting a key process in the cells' production of chemical energy. Metformin inhibits the same process and thereby suppresses HIV replication in these cells, in both cell-culture and mouse experiments. "These findings suggest that metformin and other drugs that reduce T cell metabolism might be useful as adjunct therapies for treating HIV," said researcher Haitao Guo.

Japan cherry blossoms' earliest bloom since 812

CLIMATE

TOKYO: If Japan's famous cherry blossoms have reached their flowery peak in many places earlier this year than at any time since formal records started being kept nearly 70 years ago, with experts saying climate change is the likely cause.

Japan's favorite flower, sakura, used to reach their peak bloom in April, just as the country celebrates the start of its new school and business year. Yet that date has been creeping earlier and now most years the blossoms are largely gone before the first day of school.

Some say it is the earliest peak bloom ever based on records from historic documents, diaries and poetry books from Kyoto. Osaka Prefecture University environmental scientist Yasuyuki Aono, who tracks such documents, said the earliest blooms he has found before this year were March 27 in the years 1612, 1409 and 1236, though there are not records for some years. Aono has tracked the data as far back as 812 AD in court documents.

"We can say it's most likely because of the impact of the global warming," said Shunji Anbe, an official at the Japan Meteorological Agency.

Cherry trees are sensitive to temperature changes and the timing of their blooming can provide valuable data for climate change studies.

World's economists urge drastic action on climate

CLIMATE

PARIS: The cost of global warming will far outweigh the cost of rapidly cutting greenhouse gas emissions, more than 700 economists from around the world said Tuesday in an unprecedented call to climate action.

A major international survey found that nearly three-quarters of the economists responding believed that "immediate and drastic" action was needed to limit the fallout of climate change, warning that the costs of failing to slash carbon pollution would rapidly balloon to reach trillions of dollars every year.

People who spend their careers studying our economy are in widespread agreement that climate change will be expensive, potentially devastatingly so

Peter Howard, economics director at the Institute for Policy Integrity

Nearly nine out of 10 (89%) said they believed that climate change would worsen global inequality, and they were nearly unanimous in believing that the benefits of net-zero emissions by mid-century would vastly outweigh the costs.

"These findings show a clear economic case for urgent climate action," said Peter Howard, economics director at the Institute for Policy Integrity at NYU School of Law, which conducted the survey.

For years economists have been divided on the cost-benefit equation involved in funding climate action, with even Nobel Prize-winning academics such as William Nordhaus arguing that strong actions should be balanced against costs.

Most traditional models of climate cost focus on changes to GDP in a specific year -- that is, a so-called "level impact". But more and more research has shown that climate change will reduce economic growth below what has been projected globally.

The consensus reached by survey respondents suggested that the projected economic fallout from climate change would reach $1.7 trillion annually by 2025 and roughly $30 trillion per year by 2075. By contrast, 65% of respondents said that the costs of renewable energy technology such as wind and solar would continue to fall over the next decade.

FIXING BLAME

With megaship freed, investigation begins into how Suez Canal got blocked

TECHNOLOGY

SUEZ: Experts boarded the massive container ship Tuesday that had blocked Egypt's vital Suez Canal and disrupted global trade for nearly a week, seeking answers to a single question that could have billions of dollars in legal repercussions: What went wrong?

As convoys of ships again began traveling through the artery linking the Mediterranean and Red Seas, a canal service provider said more than 300 vessels carrying everything from crude oil to cattle were still waiting for their turn in a process that will take days. Egyptian government officials, insurers, shippers and others similarly waited for more details about what caused the skyscraper-sized Ever Given to become wedged across the canal on March 23.

When blame gets assigned, it will likely lead to years of litigation to recoup the costs of repairing the ship, fixing the canal and reimbursing those who saw their cargo shipments disrupted. Since the vessel is owned by a Japanese firm, operated by a Taiwanese shipper, flagged in Panama and now stuck in Egypt, matters quickly become an international morass.

"This ship is a multinational conglomeration," said Capt. John Konrad, the founder and CEO of the shipping news website gcaptain.com.

Experts boarded the Ever Given as it idled Tuesday in Egypt's Great Bitter Lake, just north of the site where it previously blocked the canal. A senior canal pilot, speaking on condition of anonymity because he was not authorized to talk to journalists, told The Associated Press that experts were looking for signs of damage and trying to determine why the vessel ran aground.

There could be significant damage to the the ship, Konrad warned. Stuck for days across the canal, the ship's middle rose and fell with the tide, bending up and down under the tremendous weight of some 20,000 containers across its 400-meter (quarter-mile) length. On Monday, when workers partially floated the ship, all that pressure came forward to its bow.

"Structural integrity is No. 1. You know, there was a lot of strain on that ship as it was sagging in the waterway," Konrad said. "They have to check everything for cracks and particularly that rudder and the propeller in the back that's connected to the engine room."

"And then they have to go through all the mechanical equipment, make sure they test the engines, all the safety valves, all the equipment, and then determine that it's safe to sail either by itself or with a tug escort to the next port," he added. The ship's owner, Shoei Kisen Kaisha Ltd., said Tuesday that it would be part of the investigation along with other parties, though it did not identify them by name. It also refused to discuss possible causes of the grounding, including the ship's speed and the high winds that buffeted it during a sandstorm, saying it could not comment on an ongoing investigation. Initial reports also suggested a "blackout" struck the vessel, something denied by the ship's technical manager.

The company added that any damage to the ship was believed to be mostly on its keel. It said it was not immediately known whether the vessel will be repaired on site in Egypt or elsewhere, or whether it will eventually head to its initial destination of Rotterdam. That is a decision to be made by its operator, rather than the shipowner, the company said.

WAVE OF NEW WORRIES

Rising cases, falling footfall and fear of a lockdown... Restaurateurs are a concerned lot as the second wave of the virus gathers steam in the city

SANATH PRASAD

EXACTLY a year since the lockdown began and things seem similar to how they were in March 2020. Feeling particularly grim are members of the hospitality industry, especially in light of two city pubs – Toit and 1522 – temporarily shutting doors after their employees tested positive for Covid-19. While 1522 has reopened, other players in the market are beefing up measures and hoping a lockdown is not on the cards again. Chethan Hegde, founder, 1522 - The Pub, tells CE, "We have to exercise caution and the show must go on. Our BEL Road branch was temporarily shut as the staff was infected. But there should not be a taboo around those infected. We sanitised the entire place, which reopened on Tuesday."

Other establishments too are ensuring safety with regular testing and screening. Ajay Gowda, founder of Big Brewsky, believes that the business is just getting back to form and cannot afford another setback. "Most of the employees are from different states. They are not willing to pack their bags and go. They have now regrouped and their lives have to go on," says Gowda, as he emphasises why he cannot choose to close doors as a safety measure. "Besides, BBMP also visits us regularly to conduct Covid-19 tests," he adds.

Added expenses of safety measures have made it all the more important for restaurants to stay in business and recover costs. "While we are taking as many measures as possible, the expenses to ensure maximum safety do cost a lot as well. We have invested in thermal camera scanners to report abnormal body temperature and it also reports when guests aren't wearing a mask. We also conduct monthly tests for our staff," says chef Abraham Jacob, lead F&B consultant at RCB Bar and Cafe.

Giving up on entertainment and luxury isn't a great sacrifice to make. Ordering food online is also risky. I'd like to keep myself less exposed to the outside world

—Hema N, professor

While things had started to look up earlier, declining numbers have left establishments concerned again. Ashish Unnikrisnan, operation manager for RCB Bar and Cafe, says, "We have seen a 25 per cent reduction in customers during the weekends. Our staff has gone through the worst and what matters now is livelihood. The careers of music artistes and DJs have also taken a severe beating," says Unnikrishnan.

The vaccines, however, do offer some hope. Kunal Joshi, director of operations, Hard Rock Cafe, says, "Once the jab is available to all, people will start to feel safer. And moreover, no one wants another lockdown."

Some diners, on the other hand, are choosing to err on the side of caution. Student Spoorthi KS, expresses how the second wave has left her concerned. "I am now hesitant to go into crowded restaurants," she says. Agrees Hema N, a professor, who adds, "Giving up on entertainment and luxury isn't a great sacrifice to make. Ordering food online is also risky. I'd like to keep myself less exposed to the outside world."

Actor Arundhati Nag in a scene from the play Bikhre Bimb

The write way

This upcoming play explores issues of identity and language faced by many Indian writers who pen works in English

EXPRESS FEATURES

Technology has now become an essential part of our lives. So much so, that it even plays a role in this upcoming play. Veteran actor Arundhati Nag will be performing Bikhare Bimb, which is a translation of Girish Karnad's popular play Odakalu Bimba. The play will be performed at Ranga Shankara on April 1 and 2.

The play tells the story of a Kannada writer Manjula Nayak, who becomes an overnight sensation after her English book. This leads to her to question whether she is betraying her own identity and language in the quest for a global audience. Through this plot, it looks at a dilemma that is faced by many Indian writers who choose to write in English. "It is by far one of the most challenging roles I have had to essay. Bikhre Bimb is an example of avant-garde theatre and narrative. It uses technology as a character, which is interesting. Technology has an entry and an exit in this play," says Nag.

The play has been translated into Hindi by Padmavati Rao and was first performed in 2006. Directed by Girish Karnad and Kannada film and television director K M Chaitanya, it marked the former's return to direction after a break of 30 years. Chaitanya says the play starts with Nag speaking to a pre-recorded version of herself on a digital screen. "Although it's a one-woman act, the conversation is between two characters. Karnad's idea was since we live in the time where we are surrounded by various images, it would be interesting to see what happens if our images started questioning us," explains Chaitanya.

The play will be staged on April 1 and 2 at Ranga Shankara, JP Nagar.

Divya Maben; (right) layered rings by Melorra

Layering necklaces, bracelets or heavy gold chains is back in trend with fashionistas pulling out various accessories to stay up to date with this latest style statement

MONIKA MONALISA

STRIKING GOLD

HOW much gold is too much gold? That's a question that fashion blogger Divya Maben finds hard to answer, considering her wide range of gold-plated jewellery in her closet. For most fashionistas, gold and chunky jewellery take up most of the accessories section. Layering with necklaces, bracelets or heavy gold chains for the gangster look... City girls are not hesitating to go in for what has come to be known as the 'golden look.'

Maben, who loves overlaying accessories, says, "Layering necklaces is considered to be an art and if done right, it can enhance the complete look of the day. Say you don't want to go for clothes with prints and just want to stick to solid colours, then layering immediately lifts the mood of the look." She has more than 100 gold-plated accessories that she has collected over time. "I had collected most of it in my university days in Leeds. I'm glad they are back in trend now," Maben adds.

Celebrity stylist Karishma Devnani says layering goes both for deep necklines as well as high necklines. "You can layer smaller and thinner chains to get that dainty look or you can mix and match with thicker chains to get that gangster look. Either way, both stand out," says Devnani, adding that you can shun the necklace and opt for bracelets, which also give a 'chunky jewellery' feel.

Going by the trends, many brands are also coming up with similar designs in real gold. For instance, Melorra, an online jewellery store, has created these latest designs in gold. Deepshikha Gupta, senior VP, design, says they prefer going with the trend. "While a lot of other gold jewellery brands are inspired by heritage and culture, we take inspiration from latest trends and modern designs that are stylish and fashionable," says Gupta, adding that though the brand mostly targets the younger lot, they see the trend catching up with the 35-38 age group as well.

"If someone is finding it difficult to put these necklaces together, we also have layered necklaces, where you will get two already-stacked chains," she says, adding that for bracelet layering, they have options of various sweetheart bangles and chain bracelets.

SALAMBA SARVANGASANA

(SUPPORTED SHOULDER STAND POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'salamba' means supported, 'sarva' means all, 'anga' means limb, and 'asana' means pose. It is an inversion asana that is often included at the end of a yoga practise, to cleanse blood flow and bring a sense of calm. It can promote healthy, refreshing blood flow to the brain and heart after completing other poses that require the head, neck and heart to remain upright. The 'reversed' blood flow concentrates on the head and heart. It can awaken the mind with renewed circulation. Spiritually, it is thought to awaken Kundalini, the primal energy force coiled at the base of the spine. It also opens the Visuddha (Throat) Chakra, which is the purification centre for the body and an influence on creativity.

STEPS

- Stack two folded blankets. Lie down aligning shoulders on the blankets.
- With legs bent and feet on the floor, begin to walk your heel underneath your upper back feeling the chest gently rising.
- Lift your hips off of the mat coming into bridge pose and hold your heels.
- Press the palms firmly into the mat as leverage to lift onto the balls of the feet and extend one leg up.
- Bend the elbows, place your hands on your lower back, and extend the next leg up. Once you raise your legs, don't turn your head.
- Keep your gaze upward.
- Now, lift up through the balls of your feet. Walk your hands further up the back for more stability.
- Feel the chest reaching towards the chin to support opening the upper back.
- Move your hips front and your feet back to straighten the body.
- The correct alignment is with the hips over the shoulders and feet over the hips.
- Stay in the pose for up to 10 breaths.
- To come out, bring your feet back over your head to come through Plow Pose.
- Roll out from Plow Pose slowly.

BENEFITS

- Stimulates the thyroid and prostate glands and abdominal organs.
- Calms the brain and helps relieve stress and mild depression.

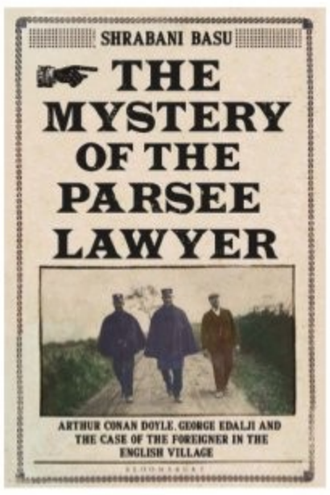
This mystery thriller by Harlan Coben has Windsor Horne Lockwood III, or Win, as its protagonist. The book is full of twists and turns. The mystery revolves around a recluse who is found murdered in his penthouse apartment, alongside two objects of note: a stolen Vermeer painting and a leather suitcase bearing the initials WHL3. Win doesn't know how his suitcase and his family's stolen painting ended up in the dead man's apartment. The story gets interesting when the FBI tells him that the man who kidnapped his cousin, Patricia Lockwood, was also behind an act of domestic terrorism, and that he may still be at large. Will Win wield his own brand of justice to crack the case?

'CONAN DOYLE WAS CONVINCED OF A MISCARRIAGE OF JUSTICE'

Author Shrabani Basu's latest book explores the connection between the Sherlock Holmes writer and India, by shining light at the only case he personally investigated

MONIKA MONALISA

SHRABANI Basu is back with another book, this time with a tale that shows the story of prejudice against an Indian family that converted to Christianity while they were living in Britain. Set in 1903, The Mystery of the Parsee Lawyer: Arthur Conan Doyle, George Edalji and the Case of the Foreigner in the English Village (Bloomsbury Publishing) is the story of how writer Arthur Conan Doyle investigates the case of a young Indian lawyer, George Edalji, who was falsely accused and imprisoned for mutilating horses. Previously, the author and journalist has penned Victoria & Abdul: The True Story of the Queen's Closest Confidant, which was also converted into motion picture. Excerpts from an interview:



SHRABANI BASU
THE MYSTERY OF THE PARSEE LAWYER
ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE, GEORGE EDALJI AND THE CASE OF THE FOREIGNER IN THE ENGLISH VILLAGE

How did you come across this story?
I had always been aware that the only case personally investigated by Arthur Conan Doyle was that of an Indian. Conan Doyle has written about the case himself. But I wanted to tell the full story. In 2015, I read that some letters written by Conan Doyle were coming up for auction in London. These were to do with the George Edalji case and were the letters from Conan Doyle to the police chief of Staffordshire, George Anson. I followed up on the letters and then researched the story through material in different archives, consulting home office files and police records. It took five years!

What do you think made Conan Doyle take up the case?
I think he took it up because it was such an unusual request. Here was a Parsee, a son of an Indian vicar, accused of crimes that seemed unreasonable. Conan Doyle was convinced of a miscarriage of justice and he loved to stand up for the underdog.

What kind of racism did George Edalji go through?
George was 12 when the family started receiving anonymous letters, threatening to kill them and set the vicarage on fire. Racist graffiti was painted on their house and excreta was thrown in through the letter box. It started in 1888 and went on for several years. In 1903, the attacks took an even more sinister turn, as anonymous letters started linking George with the mutilation and killing of animals. At the time, he was a 28-year-old practising solicitor and the allegations were damaging.

What about the story is so intriguing?
When George was found guilty, the media said he had committed the crime because of his 'Eastern' roots. Once Conan Doyle rose to George's defence, the media changed their tune. Now they were fascinated that the George Edalji case was being investigated by 'Sherlock Holmes'. They started writing that he should not be discriminated for the colour of his skin, all of which they were guilty of doing earlier.

What was your reaction when you went to the village and could find only the tomb stone of Shapurji Edalji?
I knew that George was buried elsewhere. It was sad to see that none of Shapurji's family members was buried next to him. It felt like a lonely grave for a man who had served for over 40 years as the vicar of the parish.

Shapurji Edalji's character is interesting. What do you know about him?
I wanted to examine why he wanted to convert to Christianity as a teenager. I also wanted to find out what drove him to make England his home. What was moving was how he never gave up fighting for his son. Nor did he abandon the village and move elsewhere after receiving threats. He served as the vicar of Great Wyrley for 42 years.

In both your books Victoria & Abdul and The Mystery of the Parsee Lawyer, both the Indian characters fall prey to racism. Since they are set in two different time periods, how different or familiar were the issues?
Abdul Karim had come from India. He was a commoner who went on to become Queen Victoria's favourite and rose through the ranks, getting land and titles. George was born in England. There is nothing really Indian about George, apart from his father and the religion of his ancestors. Abdul moved in the royal palaces, George lived in a mining village in the Midlands, and worked as a solicitor in Birmingham. Yet, they both become victims of racism. Abdul faced racism from the Queen's household and family, and was eventually thrown out after her death, while George and his family faced racism in the village and from the police force.

Strokes of creativity

FLYLEAF
VR Ferose

Vincent Van Gogh's 'Starry Night' draws thousands of visitors every day at The Museum of Modern Art in New York. It is no ordinary landscape painting but reflects Van Gogh's unique state of mind during his stay at a mental hospital in Saint-Rémy. Van Gogh suffered from epileptic fits, started hallucinating, and was suicidal as he plunged into depression. And from that mental landscape came the most famous painting of the 19th century.

The current pandemic has seen a huge surge in painting as a pastime and a way to cope with stress. Art-critic Jerry Saltz in his New York Times interview titled 'Yes, You Can Channel Your Stress Into Creativity. Here's How' says creativity is a survival strategy. "It's in every bone in every person's body; it was there with us in the caves.... Right now, people are working over long periods of time at the kitchen table....In many ways, this is closer to what art was for the last 50,000 years than it has been for a long time."

In Painting as a Pastime, Winston Churchill talks about how picking up a paintbrush for the first time at the age of 40 brought him peace during his dark days. The unpublished and penurious author Henry Miller was 37 when he began painting in 1928 while he was "supposed to be at work on the great American novel." His To Paint Is To Love Again is a lost gem, out of print. Former President George W Bush, whose Portraits of Courage is a collection of oil paintings and stories honouring the sacrifice of America's military, started to paint only in 2012. According to his art teacher, he was the most persistent student albeit not the most gifted.

One of my favourite artists is British. Stephen Wiltshire, whose talent clearly springs from his autism, draws detailed cityscapes, creating accurate impressions of them after having only observed them briefly. Floating Cities and American Dreams contain such drawings.

India's most well-known artist MF Hussain's autobiography with Khalid Mohamed, Where Art Thou, is not just about his life story but about the everyday instances in his life.

Bengaluru has had some of India's most famous artists including the late Yusuf Arakkal and S G Vasudev. Vriksha or the Tree of Life is about the art and times of S G Vasudev. With the recently opened MAP (Museum for Art and Photography), India's largest privately owned museum, Benguluru is poised to be the epicentre of arts in the country.

When I reflected on my own life, I realised that I gave up painting in my adulthood. Although I was reasonably good at it, my academic pursuits took precedence over my hobby. Painting, like any other skill, requires practice and patience. I have been fortunate to call artists Vilas Nayak and Niyaz Hussain my friends. Both have followed their passion for painting against all odds. Both have recounted numerous stories of friends who trusted their passion and paved the way for the artists they eventually became. It reminded me of what Henry Miller said, "Usually the artist has two life-long companions, neither of his own choosing... poverty and loneliness. To have a friend who understands and appreciates your work, one who never lets you down but who becomes more devoted, more reverent, as the years go by, that is a rare experience. It takes only one friend, if he is a man of faith, to work miracles".

If we cannot become artists, let us become that miracle-worker for our artist friends.

(The author is a technologist based in Silicon Valley who is gently mad about books)

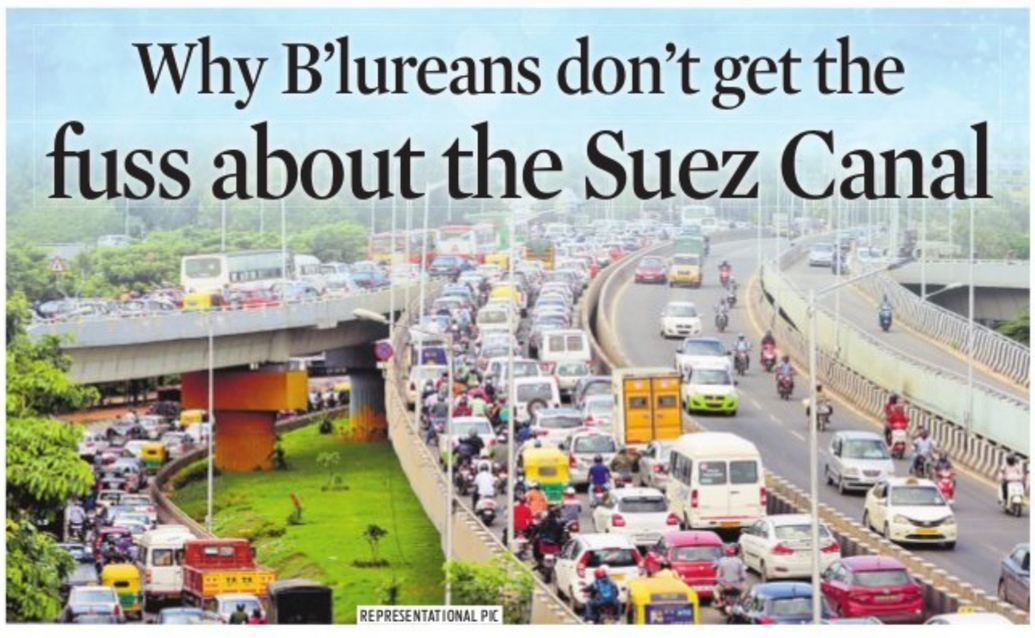
Why B'lureans don't get the fuss about the Suez Canal



REPRESENTATIONAL PIC

Much of last week was spent in tracking the progress of the gigantic ship that got stuck in the Suez Canal and caused a massive, global traffic jam among ships. The issue slowly swept over the news and reached the colourful underbelly of the Internet – memes. As someone who always had a keen interest in history right from my school days, I'd never have imagined that the Suez Canal would make a comeback in public consciousness.

If you don't remember your high school history – here's a quick recap. The Suez Canal is a man-made artificial canal that was made to connect the Mediterranean Sea to the Red Sea. Over the years, it became an important trade route and nations have fought each other over control of the important trade route. But over the years, the Suez Canal was relegated to the back benches of our brains along with Panama Canal and Kodaikanal. However, last week saw the Suez Canal make a splash in the news with a 400-metre-long ship getting wedged lengthwise on the canal, blocking hundreds of ships for an entire week.

Predictably, the incident did not spark much conversation among Bengalureans, for whom such phenomena are quite run-of-the-mill. Getting stuck is as common as ordering a masala dosae for the citizens of Bengaluru. Ask any IT employee in the city and they'll vouch for the Nolan-like time dilation that occurs when stuck in a traffic jam. Much like the ships in the Suez Canal, we all have memories of being stuck along the Silk Board – where traffic moves at the pace of bored silkworms. We have all been in the place of the ship while reversing a car, only to have it wedged vertically while taking a U-turn, thereby inviting condescending looks from the educated people of urban Bengaluru. The Suez Canal issue was finally solved when a Supermoon caused high tides in the canal. This is also something that Bengalureans can relate to, for it is only divine intervention that can help overcome a traffic jam!

I have lived in all the major Indian cities, and experienced traffic jams in all of them. But there is something really unique about the traffic jams in Bengaluru. For one, there is no fighting or honking – it is just rows of educated people sitting patiently in their cars. These are engineers who can write code to send rockets to space, but have left their movement on the roads to the stars! I was once supposed to take a flight from Bengaluru to Hyderabad, and I reached Hyderabad while the friend who dropped me at the airport was still stuck in traffic! I usually download Sanjay Leela Bhansali films for the traffic - not as a fan, but because it is the only place to watch his three-hour epic films.

Every time I'm stuck in traffic, I'm curious to find the one person that started the jam. You'll always find that one adventurous person. A trailblazer who decided to ride his bike on the footpath, or a truck driver who chose Robert Frost's path less taken by attempting to reverse amidst peak evening traffic!

It came as no surprise therefore, that Bengalureans couldn't understand what the whole fuss regarding the Suez Canal issue was really about. If you think about it, we have our own Suez Canal, and if you're fortunate enough to cross the Bellandur Lake, you get to experience a Suez Canal served with extra whipped cream and frosting!

Avatar Purusha's first single brings in IPL flavour

To be out on April 9, the song is part of the film directed by Suni and produced by Pushkar Mallikarjunaiah

Sharan

A SHARADHAA

AVATAR Purusha, which stars Sharan and is bankrolled by Pushkar Films, has locked May 28 as the release date. And looks like director Suni is on track. Even as the director is currently busy with the film's post production, they are getting ready to release the first single on April 9.

What's interesting about the track (Tarutaane harusha avatara purusha, tamte hodi baaro entry kota hero) is that a few sequences of the song are designed around the IPL frenzy. Incidentally, the song is being released on the start date of the cricket match series, which makes it all the more special for the team.

The film brings together the popular Chuttu Chuttu pair Sharan and Ashika Ranganath for the second time. This will be their first association with director Suni who has made films like Simple Agi Ondhu Love Story, Chamak, among others. Avatar Purusha will be out in two parts, with each part having a run-time of two hours and 20 minutes. The first has the tagline Ashta Digbandana Madalaka, which will bring to the fore a blend of deep characterisation and humour. The second part, which is captioned Trishanku, will explore a plot that is rarely touched upon in Sandalwood.

Written by Suni and Sheelam Kiran, the music is composed by Arjun Janya. The stunts are performed by national award-winning fight master Vikram Mor, while the cinematography is handled by William David. Avatar Purusha will be the first release for many members of the cast and crew, including Sharan and Ashika. While Sharan is currently shooting for his other film Guru Shishyaru, Ashika has completed shooting for Raymo and is now on the sets of Mada Gaja. Suni, meanwhile, is juggling his next project Sakath which stars Ganesh, while simultaneously working on the first copy of Avatar Purusha.

DUBBING RIGHTS OF AANA IN DEMAND

A horror-fantasy drama that marks the directorial debut of Manoj P Nadalumane, stars Aditi Prabhudeva in the first female superhero story

A still from Aana

CE FEATURES

ADITI Prabhudeva's latest Aana teaser, which released recently, has been receiving an overwhelming response. Director Manoj P Madalumane is excited that his debut venture, which is the first female superhero story in Sandalwood, has been the talk of the town. "The teaser has been appreciated and highlights the technical aspects -- music, sound design, and the director's vision. This has created a lot of expectation about this dark fantasy," says the first-time director, who also reveals that the film has created demand in other languages as well. "The teaser has given a heads up for the film. We have been approached for the dubbing rights in Telugu, Tamil, and other languages," he adds.

Aana is the nickname of the protagonist Anarghya, which means 'precious'. Manoj says the film does not highlight just the hero and heroine, but is also a film that gives much scope for technicians. Made under the banner UK Productions, Aana comprises cinematographer Uday Leela, editor Vijeth Chandra, and music composer Ritvik Muralidhar.

Shashi Kumar to make cameo appearance in Sugar Factory

Joining the team of Deepak Aras' film is the actor and agriculturist

Shashi Kumar

CE FEATURES

DIRECTOR Deepak Aras' Sugar Factory, starring Love Mocktail hero Krishna, is currently going on in Goa. Joining the team is former Bigg Boss Season 6 winner, actor and agriculturist Shashi Kumar. He will be making a cameo appearance in the comedy entertainer, which also stars Sonal Monteiro, Advithi Shetty and Shilpa Shetty in the cast. Post his stint in the reality show, Shashi Kumar forayed into tinsel town with Mehabooba, which is still under production. Sugar Factory will be second project for which the makers have set a 24-day schedule in the land of beaches. The rest of the portions will be canned in Bengaluru and Mysuru. The story of Sugar Factory, penned by the director, is bankrolled by R Girish. The film's music is scored by Kabir Rafi, while Santhosh Rai Pathaje is handling the camera work.

The Disciple to release on Netflix on April 30

CE FEATURES

CHAITANYA Tamhane's The Disciple will release on Netflix on April 30. Written and directed by Chaitanya, the film follows the journey of Sharad Nerulkar (Aditya Modak), a young musician who diligently follows his father and devotes his life to becoming an Indian classical vocalist. However, as the years go by, Sharad starts to wonder whether it's really possible to achieve the excellence he's striving for.

The Disciple won the FIPRESCI International Critics Prize and the Best Screenplay award at the 77th Venice International Film Festival. It was also screened at the 2020 Toronto International Film Festival, where it won the Amplify Voices Award.

Besides Aditya, the Marathi-language film also stars Arun Dravid, Sumitra Bhave, Deepika Bhide Bhagwat and Kiran Yadnyopavit. The film is executive produced by Alfonso Cuarón.

"The Disciple is a true labour of love and a story very close to my heart. It is the journey of a Hindustani classical vocalist's struggles, dreams, and artistic journey in contemporary Mumbai," Chaitanya said.

Producer Vivek Gomber added, "I'm incredibly excited to share the film with the world, we have waited a long time to do so. I am thrilled and grateful to have Netflix as our streaming partner. With their global appeal and reach, I have no doubt the film will find a discerning audience worldwide."

Russell Crowe joins Thor: Love and Thunder

CE FEATURES

ACTOR Russell Crowe, who was last seen in Unhinged, has been cast in the upcoming Marvel film, Thor: Love and Thunder. However, Crowe's role remains unspecified at this point. The film marks the Gladiator-actor's first appearance in the Marvel Cinematic Universe.

Thor: Love and Thunder is the fourth Thor film, which sees Chris Hemsworth returning to play the titular God of Thunder, last seen in Avengers: Endgame. The film is being helmed by Taika Waititi, who also directed Thor: Ragnarok, and marks the return of Natalie Portman to play Jane Foster.

Thor: Love and Thunder, also stars Christian Bale, Tessa Thompson, Chriss Pratt, and Jaimie Alexander, among others, and is scheduled to release on May 6, 2022.

Crossing lingual barriers

SHILAJIT MITRA

LINGUISTIC challenges and Zoya Hussain go hand in hand. For her debut film, Mukkabaaz (2017), she learnt to sign as a mute girl who falls for a boxer. In Laal Kaptaan (2019), her nameless widow spoke in a rough, ancient tongue. And now she turns up in Kaadan, speaking not just Tamil but also Telugu (Aranya) and Hindi (Haathi Mere Saathi) in the other versions.

"It took some adjusting because I had to do everything thrice," the actor shares. "Moreover, every language has its own rhythm and nuances. So with each take, my body language and expressions had to be different."

Zoya confirms that she actively sought out a trilingual project. "I think it's ridiculous to be limited by one language or kind of cinema. Today, more than ever, actors are crossing over and working in all industries. It's a hugely enriching experience for any performer."

In the film, Zoya essays Arvi, a tribal girl at odds with forest encroachers. Orphaned at birth, she's joined by her brother in her quest for justice. They prove a strong ally for Bandev (Rana Daggubati), a jungle dweller protecting his beloved elephants from greedy developers.

"I hope a film like Kaadan opens up the discussion on conservation," Zoya says. "If 2020 taught us anything, it was that we must give back to nature. I wish more films are made that emphasise the synergy between humans and animals."

Shooting in an actual forest reserve turned out to be an exhilarating experience for her. "Just walking in that mud and interacting with the elephants contributed so much to our characters," shares Zoya, who grew up on a farm and feels an elemental connect to nature.

It also helped that the elephants were benign co-stars. "There was no need for any extra prep because they are super chilled out. They are calm creatures, with an amazing memory. All we need to do is relax and learn to adapt to their company."

CHEHRE POSTPONED DUE TO COVID-19 RESURGE

CE FEATURES

AMITABH Bachchan and Emraan Hashmi-starrer mystery thriller Chehre has been postponed amid rising coronavirus cases in India. The film was expected to release in cinemas on April 9. However, given the sudden spike in COVID-19 cases, the makers have decided to push the film to a later date.

Producer Anand Pandit says, "Considering the situation and safety of our audiences and fans which is of utmost importance to us, we have decided to postpone our film Chehre. We are looking forward to our audiences coming to the theatres safely." Chehre is directed by Rumy Jafry.
